THE ARMY

Preston Record Office

(Special Air Mail Service)

London, Oct 10.

Colonel John Bois, D.S.O., M.C., yesterday took charge of the Infantry Record and Pay Office at Preston, in place of Colonel W. A. Blake, C.B., C.M.G., D.S.O., A.D.C., who has reached the age limit for his rank and retires.

Colonel Blake has had a distinguished career in The Liverpool and The Wiltshire Regiments, with The East Yorkshire Regiment temporarily, and on the Staff. He commanded the 2nd Battalion, The King's Regiment, and the 77th, 161st, 29th, and 13th Infantry Brigades. The brigade commands were in Salonica, Egypt, Catterick, and Shanghai, his mentions six, and decorations five. He was educated at Charterhouse.

Colonel Bois vacated command of the 2nd Battalion, The K.O.R.R., in May after 34 years' service, which had included mounted infantry duty in South Africa and Somaliland, and with the 3rd East Africa Battalion of The K.A.R. and both battalions of The K.O.R.R. After service as brigade major of the 83rd I.B. he had regimental duty in the Balkans and Staff employment with the E.E.F. in Egypt and Turkey. He was wounded, mentioned, and thrice decorated.

T.A. ARTILLERY COMPETITION

In the recent competition for the King's Prize for artillery batteries of the Territorial Army some high figures of merit were obtained. The general table of merit indicates good ranging and laying. Among those with a high standard in accuracy of five is the 281st Battery of the 71st (West Riding) Field Brigade, of Sheffield, and this amendment to the account of the competition published on September 30 is due to the officers and men of the Battery.

BRITISH AMBULANCE IN ETHIOPIA

Archbishop Heads Appeal

(Special Air Mail Service)

London, Oct 10.

An appeal above the names of the Archbishop of Canterbury, Mr George Lansbury, the Marquis of Lothian, and Lord Lugard for funds for the British ambulance service in Ethiopia was issued last night.

It is stated that, though equally at the service of any Italian wounded or prisoners, the unit will be primarily needed by the Ethiopians, who have no field ambulance and practically no medical aid at all.

The service has been accorded formal "recognition" by the Ethiopian Government and the British Government under Articles 10 and 11 of the Geneva Convention.

It is working in consultation with the International Red Cross at Geneva, and the British National Red Cross has given an assurance that any steps which they may take to help the Ethiopian Red Cross will be taken in conjunction with the British ambulance service in Ethiopia.

The Executive Committee has already made preliminary arrangements, and has secured a tentative panel of medical men, though further applicants are invited. An officer has been despatched to recruit native personnel in Kenya and Uganda, and another has gone to Addis Ababa to open communications with Harar and Berbera.

It is estimated that the cost of a properly equipped ambulance unit will be about £35,000. Each additional casualty clearing station would cost a further £10,000.

BRITISH POLICY

In The Far East

London, Oct. 10.

Sir Francis Lindley, formerly British Ambassador Extraordinary and Plenipotentiary to Japan, addressing the members of the Royal Central Asian Society at the Royal Society's Hall, Piccadilly, last evening on "The Position in the Far East," said they read that Japan was very active in China and was on the way to absorbing North China. What was undoutedly a fact was that Japan intended in the future to be the dominant factor in the Far East. It was usually taken for granted that that was a position which this country was called upon to dispute and, if possible, to prevent. Those who took up that position should consider the means at this country's disposal for attaining the end which they thought so desirable.

Geographically Japan was a good deal nearer China than this country was. When one considered the armed forces of Japan it was clear that this country was not in a position to contend with Japan in the Far East. A good many people realized that and advocated a policy of close co-operation with the United States of America, which they were careful to say should not be ostensibly or really anti-Japanese, but which would in effect keep the Japanese in check. He was very sceptical of the success of such a policy. The greatest prudence should be shown in entering into anything like a coalition against Japan in the Far East.

He did not think the Americans would enter into an armed conflict with Japan or be at all likely to support this country if we entered into one. He did not see why they should. The immense stake which this country had in the Far East should make us very careful before we antagonized the Power which was much the strongest in those regions. Our best line of policy was, if possible, to keep on good terms with Japan, and above all not to encourage the Chinese unless we were really in a position to, and intended to, give them material assistance. Nothing had done more harm than the encouragement which this country had given to other countries with whom we sympathized which had not been followed by any material help.

"SUPERMAN" SUGGESTION

He read in "The Times" that morning a letter from a very respected and no doubt in his own line very eminent Bishop advocating that this country should send to the Far East a form of superman, apparently modelled on the personality of Mr. Eden. That superman was to be equally friendly with China and Japan; he was to be a man of far greater calibre than the Ambassadors at Nanking and Tokyo; and he was to bring a new atmosphere into the Far East. The Bishop thought that, like Mr. Eden, who was so popular in Italy, the superman would be equally popular in China.

He (Sir Francis Lindley) had the greatest respect for Bishops, but when they entered into the field of foreign politics he could not help regretting that they had not restricted themselves, if not to the vestry at any rate to their cathedrals. A more ridiculous suggestion could not be imagined. In the present position in the Far East the only sensible policy was one of extreme prudence. We did the Chinese a disservice if we encouraged them in opposing a country with whom it was in their best interests to be on good terms.

Sir Horace Rumbold presided.

ANOTHER "WHALE NURSE"

(Special Air Mail Service)

London, Oct. 10

The Discovery II. has sailed, and two more of the "whale nurses," as they are called by sailors, will leave London river for the South. The William Scoresby—named after a famous Greenland whaling captain and explorer of the eighteenth century—is older and smaller than the Discovery II. and has spent one more commission marking and noting the movements of whales in the Antarctic, which is virtually the only whaling ground to-day.

Sometimes these research ships are at sea for long periods and do their refuelling from the whale factory ships. This is dangerous work, and at times two or three whale carcasses are used as fenders to keep the ships from damaging one another in the great swell which runs along the ice edge of the almost unexplored and uncharted southern seas. Unlike the Discoverey II. the William Scoresby is not fitted for oceanographical work, but attends only to her work of nursing whales.

GREAT BRITAIN AND THE LEAGUE

Mr. Elliot And "A Critical Situation"

(Special Air Mail Service)

London, Oct. 10.

Great Britain is not pro-Italian nor anti-Italian, neither is she pro-Abyssinian nor anti-Abyssinian. We are simply in favour of working the machinery of the League of Nations, which states that war is an evil thing and that war is not the concern merely of the two nations which are fighting but the concern of nations all over the world."

This summary of Britain's position in the Italo-Abyssinian dispute was given last night by Mr Walter Elliot, Minister of Agriculture, when he addressed the first of a series of meetings with his constituents in the course of this week in Overnewton Masonic Hall. Mr. W. N. Samuels presided.

It was the desire of Great Britain, Mr. Elliot said, to see peace re-established as soon as possible and on a lasting basis. But we had responsibilities which it would be impossible for us to try to ignore. We had joined the League of Nations and had remained a member for nearly 15 years with the consent of all the parties in this country. All statesmen had regarded the League as the sheet anchor of our foreign policy.

"IMPOSSIBLE TO BE DISINTERESTED"

It was impossible for us to say that we could disinterest ourselves in the provisions which were drawn up in the Covenant of the League to deal with just such a critical situation as had now arisen.

Here in Glasgow as in the rest of the country, Mr. Elliot recalled, there was held a great ballot under the auspices of the League of Nations in which over 10,000,000 people voted.

Of that total 95 per cent. voted for remaining in the League and voted in favour of taking steps, if necessary, to enforce the Covenant of the League by financial and economic measures against a country breaking the Covenant, and 75 per cent. voted in favour of even stronger measures.

Great Britain was neither pro nor anti either of the countries involved in the present dispute, but she was in favour of working the machinery of the League. That, however, was not to say that those who were speaking of Britain being drawn into hostilities had any foundation for what they were saying. We were striving for peace and hoping for peace throughout those discussions.

INCREASED EMPLOYMENT

We wanted peace Mr. Elliot continued, to continue the work of improvement which the National Government had carried on ever since it into office.

During that time there has been tremendous improvement, and he would make one claim. There was to-day the highest number of people employed in this country that ever worked in it since William the Conqueror came in 1066 or since Caesar, the first Italian to come to this country, arrived in 55 B.C.

The Government claimed to have put 1,000,000 more people back to work. But the position was even better than that. The number of people employed had increased by 1,200,000 since the National Government took office. The present figure was 10,424,000—a total which was 244,000 more than in August last year, 629,000 more than in August, 1933, and 1,128,000 more than in August, 1932.

In Glasgow the position also showed an improvement. Here the number of unemployed had fallen from 124,900 in September, 1931, to 102,000 in August, 1935.

Mr. Elliot also addressed an open-air meeting at Finnieston Cross.

SERIES OF MEETINGS

Mr. Elliot is to undertake a comprehensive series of meetings in the course of the next few days. He will address a meeting under the auspices of the Sandyford District Committee of the Kelvingrove Association in the Grand Hotel this evening, and on Thursday he has two engagements, speaking at the lunch hour to the members of the Conservative Club and in the evening, again in the Grand Hotel, to a meeting organised by the Park Committee. His closing engagement will be at a smoking concert on Friday evening at the same place.

To-day, Mrs Elliot will speak at the annual meeting of the Paisley and District Voluntary Welfare, and in the evening she will attend the opening meeting of Kelvindale Town-Woman's Guild.

NEW MASTER OF THE ROLLS

Lord Hanworth Resigns

(Special Air Mail Service)

London, Oct. 10.

Lord Wright has been appointed Master of the Rolls in succession to Lord Hanworth. The official announcement, which was made yesterday from 10, Downing Street, contained other legal changes and was as follows:—

The King has approved that the Right Hon. Lord Wright be appointed Master of the Rolls in succession to the Right Hon. Lord Hanworth, who acting on medical advice, has resigned the office;

That Wilfrid Greene, Esq., K.C., be appointed a Lord Justice of Appeal.

The official announcement confirms reports during the week-end that Lord Hanworth was resigning owing to ill-health. Lord Hanworth, who was formerly Sir Ernest Murray Pollock, is 74 and has been ill since mid-September. For several weeks he has been in a nursing home, where he underwent an operation.

He has been Master of the Rolls since 1923, and was formerly Solicitor General and Attorney General. His first big case as Attorney General was in 1922, when he conducted the case for the Crown in the poisoning trial in which Major Armstrong was found guilty of the murder of his wife.

Lord Hanworth was educated at Charterhouse and Trinity College, Cambridge. He became barrister in 1885, and took silk in 1905. He was raised to the peerage in 1926.

Lord Justice Maugham is 69. He is a brother of Mr. Somerset Maugham, the novelist and playwright. During a brilliant university career he rowed in the Cambridge boat in 1888 and 1889. He was educated at Dover College and Trinity Hall, Cambridge. He took honours in the Mathematical Tripos in 1888 and was president of the Union Debating Society. In 1890 he was called to the Bar at Lincoln's Inn, and was made a Bencher in 1915, two years after he had taken silk. In 1928 he was appointed a judge of the Chancery Division, and in 1934 he was elevated to the Court of Appeal.

Lord Justice Maugham is married to a sister of another Lord Justice, Sir Mark Lemon Romer, who has regularly sat with him as a colleague in the Appeal Court.

Mr. Wilfrid Arthur Greene, K.C., the new Lord Justice of Appeal, is one of the most eminent of present-day Chancery "silks." His promotion involves a heavy monetary sacrifice, as he is reputed to earn higher fees than any other practising barrister.

He was born in 1883, and was educated at Westminster School and Christ Church, Oxford. Called to the Bar in 1908, he took silk in 1922. He was chairman of the sugar-beet industry inquiry which sat last year. In 1909 he married Miss Nancy Wright, who is a well-known playwright and translator of Italian drama.

SMART STREET SUIT

One of the smartest of this season's ensembles is the street suit worn recently by Barbara Stanwyck, signed by RKO Radio to star in "Shooting Star." The suit is made of a light grey homespun, strictly tailored yet avoiding the masculine. The hip-length jacket is belted at the waistline, the only decorative motif being the triple rows of stitching which outlines the jacket yoke, skirt gores, pockets, cuffs, reveres and belt. A brilliant paisley scarf adds a note of colour to the suit, as does the green grosgrain band trimming the swagger grey felt hat.

FORMAL SUMMER FROCK

For her first formal dress-up party this summer, curly haired little Helen Parrish, RKO Radio's juvenile player, selected a dainty white organdie frock. A cluster of organdie flowers was used to fasten a detachable cape, made in four gathered bands, the lower one being the widest. This same effect was repeated in the skirt. Quaint bracelets of hand-made rosebuds were worn at the wrists. Helen wore silver kid sandals, cut like those preferred by "grown-ups" with the frock.

COCKTAIL FROCK

Embossed silk is the striking fabric selected to create a stunning new fall cocktail frock by Jane Hamilton, lovely young player appearing currently in RKO Radio's "Old Man Rhythm." A white tunic, fastened with self-covered buttons, is trimmed with rows of inverted tucks down the centre front. Tucks are also used to gather the enormous sleeves at the wrist and on the turned-down collar. A stylized flower pin of black enamel and brilliants is worn at the throat. The full floor-length skirt is made of black embossed silk. Black cellophane was used for the pill-box hat with fitted visor which is worn with the frock as are black accessories.

WOOLLEN JUMPERS

Jumpers are now more tailored than they were a few years ago, and it is important that not only they keep their shape but also that the beautiful effects of some of the wools are not spoiled. I heard an expert of one of the most modern wool firms say that she never had her jumpers washed because no matter how careful it is done they always give a fraction of an inch somewhere, and part at least of the beauty and elasticity of the wool is lost. Although all good wools are guaranteed to wash, the little extra paid to have the garment cleaned is justified by the retention of its new appearance.

FASHIONS IN SHOES

Lower Heels For Women

It was stated at the International Shoe and Leather Fair, opened yesterday at the Royal Agricultural Hall, Islington, that, with the exception of the United States, Great Britain is the best shoe country in the world and that expenditure of boots and shoes is still increasing. Women on the average buy six pairs of shoes a year.

Some 30,000 pairs of boots and shoes are exhibited at the fair, and there is a display of boots and shoes for such sports as hunting, polo, climbing, skiing, shooting, and fishing. For the trade visitor there are also numerous exhibits of leather machinery in motion, and demonstrations by research associations.

It is indicated by the stands that tie-bar shoes, "monk" shapes, and single wide bar buckle shoes are to be fashionable. Heels generally are much lower. The very high heel up to 3in. in depth is still made for certain classes of trade but is no longer fashionable. "Flats," "Charleston," or "Peasant" heels, ranging from ½in. to ¾in. are said to be popular with young women of all classes. Materials most in demand appear to be suede, reverse calf, and antelope, either alone or in combination with kid and lightweight calf, both of which are also used without suede. Reptiles, it is considered, may return. Shoes will be offered for spring sale in such colours as "marine blue," "marrona," "Indies brown," "ginger brown," "Oriental oxblood," and "chamois yellow."

NAMES FOR MEN'S SHOES

Descriptive names are also applied to-day to the colours for men's shoes, and the shades include "spaniel tan," "retriever brown," "vintage brown," "greyhound," and "hempcord."

Flat heels, it is announced, will be worn this season by women with ball, restaurant, theatre, and dinner gowns, and the materials favoured are kid, lamé, and satins. Shapes will be mostly of the sandal type and some will be toe-less.

Mr. J. H. Harlow, who presided at the opening luncheon and proposed "Success to the shoe and leather and allied industries," said that the boot and shoe trade claimed the splendid record of 40 years peace in industry. It was good sense always to endeavour to settle labour difficulties at the conference table. In this progressive age, he added, new and more rapid machinery, combined with improved methods of production, led to the problem of fewer work-people being required or lessened hours of work unless they could increase the demand for their products. He asked that people should become shoe conscious. If they could persuade the public to purchase one pair of shoes extra per head per year it would put every workman on full time again with full output from every shoe factory, and the problem of unemployment in the industry would be solved.

APPEAL FOR FAIR PLAY

Boot manufacturers at present were having to face serious difficulties in respect of the price of leather. He appealed for fair play in the matter. The public wanted good shoes and better shoes and would be willing to pay for them, so why, he asked, should buyers try to force manufacturers into lowering their standard of quality. He believed that prosperity was slowly but surely returning to this country. The signs were many and what they needed was confidence to help it along.

EMBROIDERIES RETURN TO FASHION

Paris Favours Handwork Again

Woolwork, braiding, quilting, appliqué, beadwork, broderie anglaise, shirring, smocking, tucking, and even good old satin-stitch flowers on stemstitch stalks, all have their place in the autumn and winter fashion picture. After the [illegible] favour into which hand embroidery has fallen in latter years in the dressmaking world, this sudden revival will come as a pleasant and welcome surprise, especially I think in our own country, where a touch of bright colour on a winter gown is as welcome as roses in December.

And the amount of hand-knit and crochet wear! Lucien Lelong goes so far as to offer us a three-quarter white faille evening coat lined throughout with a hand-knit brown wool lining of the same tone as the crepe evening gown over which it is worn! But that is another story.

worked in circles round the armholes to the shape of a Spanish bolero. Schiaparelli develops this same idea for evening wear, the bolero effect being obtained by an all-over pattern composed of inch-long looking-glass motifs.

RETURN OF BRAIDING

Braiding, too, is general this season. Braided dress fronts, braided coats, braided cloaks, all more or less in the "vivandière" spirit. Marcel Rochas offers us a cloth coat with bishop's sleeves and a broad collar and high revers in white broadcloth braided in black soutache. Very smart Schiaparelli offers us a black cloth cape to the knees with mock revers in red and black soutache reaching sheer out to the shoulders. Somebody else, a black velvet afternoon suit with band-major braiding from throat to waist, and

PEASANT COLOUR SCHEMES

Let us consider wool embroideries first of all. Peasant influence is evidently at work again, and comes, I suppose, from the wedge of crude Scandinavian colour that has put in an unexpected appearance this season. Raw reds, raw greens, blues and yellows hand embroidered on dark grounds crop up again and again, reminding me strangely enough of the "arty" phase through which most of us have passed at some time or other in our evolution!

Here for example is a model by Alix. Imagine a simple black indoor dress with the skirt fullness pulled to the front in a single gored pleat, a high draped neckline innocent of trimming, and wide bell sleeves worked from elbow to wrist in rows of heavy peasant woolwork in which red, rust brown, crude green, and crude blues predominate. And again, chez Marcel Rochas, there is a black wool indoor dress relieved at the waist and wrist by peasant embroideries in green, black, and red on a white ground.

Schiaparelli also favours woolwork trimmings the model I have in mind being a green wool house dress with a little green coatee Jenny a three-quarter coat braided down the fronts and around the hem with wavy lines of soutache and bands of astrakhan. All very military and in keeping with the times!

For afternoon wear Jean Patou suggests a vert-de-gris luminous satin gown with draped neckline, full bishop's sleeves (sleeves are mostly bell or bishop this season), and as its only trimming a large appliqued bow in dull satin covering the whole of the front of the bodice. A very elegant and essentially feminine gown.

But for originality and charm give me Bruyère's "sculpté" embroideries, which Madame Bruyère tells me she has borrowed from certain early Italian and Byzantine prints.

This "sculpté" embroidery is a combination of quilting and appliqué, the stitchery being carried out in a contrasting colour to the ground on which it is worked. For example, here is a soft beige kaska suit, skirt and coat with "sculpté" embroidery in an Eastern design of stylised flowers and leaves down both fronts and in a point to the waist in the back. The leaves are quilted and stand out in low relief, as do the petals of the flowers, while the centres of the latter are picked out in brown appliqué work. All the stitchery is brown. The same idea is used with great success on gold and silver tissues for afternoon and evening wear, and Bruyère's satin bridal gown features "sculpté" details on the headdress and waistband.

POCKETS ARE POPULAR

As usually happens when embroidery comes into favour in dressmaking, pockets have put in an appearance on other than sports clothes, cute little useless pockets on unexpected places picked out with bead, wool or sequin motifs. One model in particular: it was an afternoon dress in a soft black wool material with as its only trimming two little pockets, one on the bodice and one on the hip, embroidered with overlapping circles in silver sequins.

Another black afternoon model features as its only relief a funny little circular shaped pocket embroidered with red, black and chalk beads; while a cocktail dress consisting of ankle-length skirt and three-quarter tunic boasts a single pocket just below the waist on the left-hand side embroidered with a Tudor rose in diamanté beads. All of which, you must admit, have been looked upon with disfavour only six short months ago!

ROUND THE SHOPS

LANE CRAWFORD. Going through the Ladies department yesterday one could not but notice the holly scattered about which made one realize that soon will be Christmas and the thought of gifts. Well I must say there are some delightful gifts in this store, most useful they were too. On display were Gloves, Bags of all descriptions, Flowers and Costume —Jewellery including some lovely clips for dresses, handkerchiefs, perfumes and last but not least Elizabeth, Arden's Beauty Boxes and numerous other things that it was impossible to describe them all

MAIZEES have received a very select lot of cocktail hats and as they are worn a lot this time of the year one must not fail to see these attractive models. They have them in Black Velvet and net finished off with little veils in turbans and off-face styles, also some nice styles in Brown Velvet and net also finished off with little veils.

MAYOS are showing this week a new shipment of very attractive woollen and silk dresses. One specially attractive style was a two piece brown check suit finished off with brown velvet collar and cuffs.

RIVELLE. Some really pretty Evening Gowns are now on show at Rivelle. One model in Black with a tunic of red check taffeta called the Cossack Suit was admired by many as also the Black Taffeta Gown.

GORDONS. The Ladies shoe shop have on display a lot of new models. 'The Court Shoe" combined with patent leather was exceptionally good looking. Some very nice evening shoes were on show both in Black Silk, Silver and Gold Kid and numerous other styles.

ers, while the centres of the latter are picked out in brown appliqué work. All the stitchery is brown. The same idea is used with great success on gold and silver tissues for afternoon and evening wear, and Bruyère's satin bridal gown features "sculpté" details on the headdress and waistband.

CLEVER COCKTAIL FROCK

A Roman striped silk jersey with a turtle neck and fitted lines imparts a sporting, out-door tang to a clever cocktail frock which is an important part of the summer wardrobe of Margaret Callahan, well-known stage star, who is making her motion picture debut in RKO Radio's "Hot Tip." When the jersey is removed Miss Callahan has a strictly formal gown of heavy, roughly — woven white crepe, with a square neckline and very wide shoulder straps.

SPORTS ENSEMBLE

Originality of styling is the keynote of the smart spectator sports ensemble designed by Bernard Newman for Helen Broderick to wear in "Top Hat," RKO Radio's latest Fred Astaire-Ginger Rogers picture. The frock and revers and cuffs on the jacket are made of natural linen suiting. The jacket and bodice trimming are created of a toughly woven silk and linen, combining henna brown, brilliant pomegrante red; yellow, beige and white. Bias cutting is used to gain the smart lines of the jacket. The revers and cuffs of the coat are stitched in natural thread and this effect is repeated in the cuffs of the natural linen gloves and the Chinese beret made of the frock fabric.

BEACH ENSEMBLE

Embroidered linen for beach wear—new and smart—is the fabric used in a novel ensemble by Kay Sutton, currently appearing for RKO Radio in "Old Man Rhythm." The slacks and bolero jacket are of roughly woven white linen, the fitted blouse of bright green linen, both embroidered in bright colours in quaint Mexican designs. A green sash knotted at the right and falling almost to the knees is also trimmed with bright Mexican embroidery. White linen is used for the swagger knee-length top coat. A white and green linen beach bag and white beach sandals complete the outfit.

MODERN DECORATION

A New Note in modern architecture and decoration is introduced in this setting designed by Carroll Clark and Van Nest Polglase as a background for scenes of "Top Hat," new RKO Radio Picture co-starring Fred Astaire and Ginger Rogers. New features include curtains of woven cellophane and a rug of woven ribbed pattern. The colour scheme of the walls and furniture is tones of white. The mural over the mantel, part of which can be seen at the left, is grey on a darker gray-blue background.

A SKYSCRAPER RAFFLES

Woman Bound With Silk Stockings

(Special Air Mail Service)

London, Oct. 10.

A skyscraper Raffles who comforts his victims with cigarettes, is being eagerly sought by the New York police. His latest exploit occurred this week-end on the twenty-ninth floor of an exclusive hotel overlooking Central Park.

Here, with consummate coolness and perfect politeness, he robbed a visitor from the South, Mrs. Deene Carmichle, of £1,000 worth of jewels and a large sum in cash.

Walking into her room at seven o'clock in the evening on the pretext that he was a hotel messenger, he threatened the woman with a revolver and forced her into the bath room, where he tied her up with two pairs of silk stockings.

"You seem nervous," he said with a laugh. Lighting a cigarette, he stuck it in her mouth and then removed rings from her fingers and money from her desk.

Apologising profoundly, he removed the cigarette, and, after gagging his victim with a towel and turning on the wireless as loud as possible, he departed.

ORGAN WITHOUT PIPES

Some Inventions Of The Year

(Special Air Mail Service)

London, Oct. 10.

An organ without pipes, "the mechanical Epstein," and a new type of pram wheel are some of the inventions which have won prizes at the International Exhibition of Inventions which is in progress at the Central Hall, Westminster, London. The awards were announced yesterday.

The first prize—the Grey Wilson Memorial Gold Medal, which is only awarded for an invention "of outstanding merit"—was won by Rudolf Stelyhammer, of Harnabietngasse, Vienna. His invention is a radio organ. It is a musical keyboard instrument with electric tone production, but it has neither strings nor pipes. It sounds very much like an organ, and organ and piano players are said to be able to play it very quickly.

The second prize—the Founders' Silver Medal—was awarded to Mr. S. T. Jeffreys, Aldenham Road, Bushey, Herts, for an apparatus described as photo sculpture. It is a machine which automatically produces an accurate model of a person or object in sculpture form from a photographic record. It has been described as a "mechanical Epstein."

The Institute of Patentees Bronze Medal, the third prize, was won by Mr. J. D. Furey, Cabra Drive, Dublin, who has concentrated his attention on the problem of making baby carriages run more smoothly. His invention consists of baby carriage wheels that move in either direction like the front wheels of a car.

The only woman among the prize-winners is Mrs. Stockton, Westcliffe-on-Sea, who receives a gold medal certificate in the trade section for an apparatus to prevent the tearing of linen when drying in a laundry. In the building and housing section Mr. T. Fraser, View Terrace, Aberdeen, was awarded a certificate of merit.

"Wednesday's Child"

Golfer (to partner in foursome): "What was the matter with you at the sixth and seventh? You went all to pieces. If you hadn't recovered so wonderfully, we'd have lost for a certainty."

Partner: "Well, it suddenly struck me that I was to have been married to-day, but when I remembered I'd nothing fixed for next Wednesday I felt all right again."

"BECKY SHARP"

BRINGING THE GLORY OF LIVING COLOUR

GALA PREMIERE

Becky Sharp At The Queen's

In 1899 Becky Sharp stepped from the pages of William Makepeace Thackeray's famous novel "Vanity Fair" to the American stage. Langdon Mitchell, the brilliant young playright who wrote the play, named it after the vivacious Becky who, as Thackeray's foil, had, a half century before, thrown London's literary and social inner circles into a turmoil such as few fictional characters have ever roused. Minnie Maddern Fiske, then at the height of her great career, played the title role. It became her best known characterization. In thirty years she revived the play five times and made more the eleven hundred personal appearances as Becky.

"Becky Sharp" has been seen on both the silent and talking screen. The adaptions, however, were not from the Mitchell play, which is admittedly the only successful adaptation of the novel ever written for the stage. Now the sparkling vivacious minx comes to the world again. This time on the screen, opening with a gala-premiere to-night at the Queen's Theatre, the talking screen and more—the full-colour screen. She has been selected to usher in a new era in motion picture making. Born in the halls of literature, Becky Sharp comes again with the warmth that colour will add to her colourful personality and the vital-fire that the artistry of Miriam Hopkins, stepping into the shoes of Mrs. Fiske, has breathed into her greatest role. Rouben Mamoulian produced this Pioneer Picture screen drama for RKO-Radio release.

BECKY SHARP

The preview of the famous R.K.O. film "Becky Sharp" took place yesterday at the Queen's Theatre where it will be shown shortly. There was also a very pretty coloured short on Japan by Van Beuren. This inaugurates a new era in screen entertainment, it being the first full picture ever shown and certainly some of the colours are excellent.

The film is based on Thackeray's famous picture classic "Becky Sharp." The principal characters are Miriam Hopkins as Becky Sharp, Sir Cedric Hardwicke as the Marquis of Steyne, that very beautiful girl Frances Dee as Amelia Sedley, Nigel Bruce as Joseph Sedley. The caste is a very full one so I refrain from giving more names.

In Becky Sharp colour has been skilfully employed and nothing could be more dramatically effective than the episode of the famous ball in Brussels on the eve of the Battle of Waterloo. The flash and glitter of the officers uniforms in contrast with the ladies pastel-tinted frocks make a marvellous colour effect.

Miriam Hopkins plays with great vivacity. Sir Cedric Hardwicke gives a fine rendering of an Ambassador, and Frances Dee is excellent as Becky's friend.

Richelieu Still Baffles Arliss

Even though George Arliss portrays the title role of "Cardinal Richelieu" in the Darryl Zanuck production for 20th Century Pictures at the King's Theatre, to-morrow the star is still baffled by the man he impersonates

Was Armand de Plessis—whose fame as Cardinal Richelieu is written down in history in flaming letters — a politician cloaked in the robes of ecclesiasm, or was he primarily a man of the church whose political involvements were incidental?

In novels, biographies and plays, various writers have pictured Richelieu as both hero and rogue, according to their interpretation of this red-robed genius who was the power behind the throne of Louis XIII of France.

WILL LET PUBLIC DECIDE

George Arliss personally scanned at least one hundred of these books in preparation for his portrayal of "Cardinal Richelieu." The result of his researches was a conclusion to let the film public form its own conclusions to the real character of the prelate. From the books he had read, he gathered as much truth as, in the mind of this distinguished actor, seemed sufficient to present the evidence. But:

"Books on historical characters are inclined to be misleading to an actor," says Arliss.

"In the case of Richelieu, all writers agree upon his greatness as being due to his personal powers, but there are as many differences about the way he used those powers as there are books upon the man.

"In arriving at my characterization, I discarded those books written by present-day biographers. There is a tendency among writers to-day to write merely for sensationalism. Their aim is to pull down those whom history has placed upon a pedestal, just as the aim of earlier historians, was to exalt them.

A DANGEROUS PRACTICE

"The writing of such biographies in the style of to-day makes more interesting reading, because the facts are supplemented by imagination. But it is a very dangerous proceeding. Writers to-day are picturing Washington and Lincoln very differently from the heroic light in which earlier biographers placed them. This is a deliberate attempt of the writer to gain success for himself at the expense of his subject. Great men should be pictured in the light of, and in relation to their great deeds.

"This is the attitude with which I have approached my portrayal in "Cardinal Richelieu." He is shown in this picture in relation to the dramatic events by which he rose to greatness. The evidence is presented—the public can decide for itself its opinion of the man. That, I believe, is the fairest way to present a man around whom so much controversy has been raised."

"Cardinal Richelieu" was directed by Rowland V. Lee, for release through United Artists, with the supporting cast that includes Maureen O'Sullivan, Edward Arnold, Francis Lister, Douglas Dumbrille, Cesar Romero, Violet Kemble Cooper, Kathryn Alexander and Halliwell Hobbes.

Janet Gaynor, who, ever since her spectacular success in "7th Heaven" has looked for another role with similar acting opportunities, has at last found it in "The Farmer Takes a Wife," the Fox Film adaptation of the stage success, which is now at the King's Theatre.

"The Farmer Takes a Wife" is the magnificent, colourful story of the Erie Canal waterways in the 1850's, and the story of the love that grew up between a girl of the canals and a boy whose heart was attached to the soil.

Under Director Victor Fleming's lyric guidance, the film sweeps from Rome, N. Y. to Utica, along the Erie waterways, picturing the lush fields of grain, the rich orchards, the gusty and humorous life of the people who helped build an empire out of a ganging country.

The dramatic conflict lies in the boy's efforts to win the girl to his way of thinking, and his battle for her love with the bully of the canal, Charles Bickford.

FRIDAY THE 13th

"Friday the 13th," the new Gainsborough picture, is a brilliant production, providing entertainment from first to last.

An ingeniously contrived picture wherein seven stories are told concurrently, the scenes alternate between the various groups of characters, the passage of time throughout being recorded at intervals on the face of Big Ben.

An accident happens to the bus, involving its passengers, two of whom are killed, but the accident brings a solution to the problems confronting the others.

Victor Saville, whose brilliant direction of "The Good Companions" and "I Was a Spy" brought him international fame, is responsible for "Friday the 13th." The leading players in a distinguished cast are Jessie Matthews, Sonnie Hale, Edmund Gwenn, and Gordon Harker.

CARDINAL RICHELIEU

This fine film was previewed at the King's Theatre and will have its first showing on Saturday. Before the main picture, there is a delightful Mickey Mouse short in Technicolour which was thoroughly enjoyed by all present.

The scene is seventeenth century France, the court of Louis XIII, the scheming of the Queen Mother and the counter-plotting of the Cardinal.

It is Richelieu's love for his country that motivates the story. According to the Arliss' reading of the part, France comes first in everything—even the Cardinal's spiritual master, the Pope—must take second place when France's solidarity is endangered. So, you see Arliss as Richelieu is not very far removed from Mr. Arliss as Disraeli and as the working man. An idealist who is cunning only to be good. He has a tender side to his nature, his interest in the romance between Maureen O'Sullivan, his ward and her noble lover acted by Cesar Romero.

The picture is very elaborately staged and the acting of Edward Arnold as Louis XIII was very fin—and I recommend all Arliss fans to see it.

THE ARIZONIAN

Movie-goers eager to see Richard Dix in such a role as Yancy Cravat in "Cimarron" are said to have their longing appeased in "The Arizonian," his latest starring production last night at the Queen's Theatre.

As in the epic of Oklahoma, Dix is an unflinching supporter of law and order. Visiting grafting ridden Silver City, a mushroom town of the early West, he accepts the post of marshal and campaigns against outlawry. He has on ordinance passed which disarms the town. He arrests a fellow officer's murderer single-handed. He antagonizes the sheriff, a crooked authority. He rebuffs the town judge, the sheriff's tool. An action-crammed climax brings Dix to battle with the foe. The blazing ruins of the county prison form a barricade for the marshal's operatives, who are outnumbered two to one.

The blonde charmer of "The Informer" Margot Grahame, is a prominent figure in "The Arizonian" involved in a romance with the peace-officer and his brother. Preston Foster and Louis Calhern, are also among the cast of this RKO-Radio Picture.

TRAFFIC SUMMONS

Stating that perhaps defendant has his own views of the rules of the road, Mr. W. Schofield at the Central Magistracy yesterday convicted Cheng Sai Yuen, driver of car No. 104, and fined him $30 when he appeared before the former on a summons for driving without due care and caution in Caine Road on September 25. The summons was taken out at the instance of Warder Franks, who said he was driving along Caine Road east-wards, and when near the police quarters he noticed a lorry coming in the opposite direction, so he drew in towards the kerb. At the same time, the defendant's car shot from behind the lorry, and he was forced to drive on to the kerb to avoid a collision. There was a woman with a child on the kerb when he swerved towards it.

Defendant admitted he was driving behind a lorry, and said he was given the signal to overtake by the lorry driver. He then started to overtake, but saw no sign of the complainant's car. When he drew level with the lorry, he saw the complainant's car coming towards him, so he slowed down and stopped behind the lorry, which continued on.

ANOTHER CASE

Another traffic offender was dealt with by Mr. W. Schofield when Mui Tak, a carpenter, pleaded guilty to charges of driving lorry No. 3254 without a driver's licence, and driving it without the permission of its owner in Fleming Road on October 28. Defendant was fined a total of $75, or, in default, seven weeks hard labour. Traffic Sergeant Blackburn said the lorry was taken by the owner to have the woodwork repaired at the defendant's shop. About 5 p.m. on October 28, he saw the defendant driving the lorry, and recognised him as a carpenter. He stopped the lorry, and defendant got out and ran away. He then drove the lorry to the Police Station. Yesterday morning, the owner of the lorry, the defendant and his master came to the Station, and he then arrested defendant and charged him.

GOOD WORK PRAISED

Tracked by a Chinese male named Tsang Chung Chiu, who was highly commended by the Kowloon Magistrate for his action, a 42-year-old widow, named Choi Tsan made an appearance before Mr. E. I. Wynne-Jones at the Kowloon Magistracy yesterday, charged with the larceny by trick of a gold finger ring from Chan Yu (37), an amah on October 25.

The Police stated that had it not been for the action of Tsang, defendant would not have been arrested. It was alleged that the latter was implicated in a "bank note trick."

Defendant pleaded guilty and was sentenced to four months' hard labour.

Detective-Sergean C. Dowman, stated that on October 25 complainant was coming out of the Majestic Store when she was accosted by defendant and a Chinese male, who asked her to take them to their uncle's shop at Tsimshatsui. On the way complainant was asked to change $100 banknote; she agreed and in return she handed over a gold ring as security On opening the bundle complainant found only paper.

Four days later, defendant met another woman named Chiu Chau, on whom she tried to work the same trick. She was recognised by a man, Tsang Chung-chiu, who became suspicious as the woman was with two strange men. He followed them and blew his police whistle and the woman was arrested. The men managed to escape.

On a charge for theft of five and three quarter yards of cloth from No. 4, Wing Kat Street, ground floor, Yuen Kwong, (22) unemployed, was brought before Mr. Macfadyen at the Central Magistracy yesterday. Sub-Inspector Walsh stated that the cloth was found under defendant's jacket by a district watchman. Sentence of two weeks' hard labour was passed. For stealing one packet of "Came" brand cigarettes from Chan Kang, Ho Yu, (26) street coolie, was given the option of a fine of $10, or fourteen days' hard labour in default in view of his twenty-years' residence in the Colony without having a conviction.

RETURNED BANISHEES

Before Mr. E. I. Wynne-Jones at the Kowloon Magistracy yesterday two men Kwok Hin and Lam Hon pleaded guilty to charges of returning from banishment and were sentenced to terms of hard labour.

Kwok Hin age 23 who admitted having been banished on August 17, 1931 was sentenced to the maximum term of 12 years.

Detective-Sergeant C. Dowman stated that when defendant was arrested on Tuesday, he struggled and tried to throw something away. It was later found to be two banknotes rolled round a bundle of paper.

Defendant pleaded that he had come back to the Colony in order to collect a debt, which was owed to him. He admitted that in 1931 he was convicted for larceny by trick.

Pleading that he had come back to get some money, Lam Hon, aged 57, was sentenced to nine months' hard labour for the same offence. Defendant was banished for ten years only two months ago. He was arrested on Tuesday.

WATCHMAN IN TROUBLE

A 58-year-old Indian watchman named Arjan Singh appeared before Mr. Macfadyen at the Central Magistracy yesterday charged with entering the Colony without a valid passport.

Detective Sergeant Russell stated that had a permit issued in 1929 valid for a single trip between Singapore and Hong Kong. He had been employed as a watchman in the Colony for some years, and in 1929 he went to Macao, where he was employed until a month ago. He then decided to come to Hong Kong, as he had heard that the Kowloon Docks wanted to employ some Indian watchmen. Defendant arrived in the Colony on October 29. The police were asking for an expulsion order against defendant, who would only be allowed to remain here if he had proper papers.

An expulsion order was accordingly made by the Magistrate.

Pleading guilty to the possession of 14,175 heroin pills at No. 161 Temple Street, ground floor, on October 23, Au Wing, (38), unemployed, was fined $2,500 with the alternative of 12 months' hard labour, by Mr. E. I. Wynne-Jones at the Kowloon Magistracy yesterday. The prosecution accepted the plea of the second defendant, Tam Man, aged 24, shop foki, of not guilty and he was accordingly discharged. Detective-Sub-Inspector Cunningham produced first defendant's criminal record, which revealed that he had a previous conviction for a breach of the Opium Ordinance in 1933.

An order for the confiscation of 61 rounds of unclaimed .32 automatic revolver ammunition was made at the Kowloon Magistracy yesterday by Mr. E. I. Wynne-Jones, on the application of Detective Sergt. J. Headridge. The ammunition was found in the backyard of No. 577 Canton Road on Tuesday.

630 catties of sugar and 2,300 coat buttons, found unmanifested and unclaimed on board the steamer Lung Shan, lying alongside the Canton Wharf on October 26, formed the subject of an application made by Sergeant Grainger before Mr. Macfadyen at the Central Magistracy yesterday His Worship granted the application.

* * *

An unemployed named, Chan Fan, pleaded guilty to the possession of 70 heroin pills when he appeared before Mr. Macfadyen at the Central Magistracy yesterday, and was fined $700, or two months' hard labour. Another man, Li Kwai, (32) also unemployed, was charged with the possession of 495 heroin pills, and was fined $400, or two months' hard labour.

SWATOW NEWS

"Refugees" Return

(From Our Own Correspondent)

Swatow, Oct. 25.

Recent steamers arriving from Hong Kong have brought back hundreds of Chinese residents who sought refuge there when conditions were seemingly bad a while ago. Some of the richer class of people even betook themselves to the Straits and Saigon for the same purpose. Although the situation is quite normal at the moment, brought about by the settlement of the Sino-Japanese rice dispute, the more responsible Chinese folks still entertain the fear that dark clouds will appear again on the political sky. And one can always understand the position by the upward tendency of the Hong Kong Dollar.

BATHING SEASON ENDS

The bathing season has come to an end with other winter sports following in its wake. Masu Island frequenters had the use of the "Ema" Shack this season. During the week-end one could enjoy a good lunch, an afternoon tea or a cold drink at that shack, thus being spared the bother of one having to bring along his own food and drinks. I am sure the great support given by the small community is much appreciated by the sponsors.

The other public matshed at the end of Kialat has also proved its popularity by the daily big attendance of bathers. Buses were run at half prices with a corresponding decrease in the ricksha fares.

Speaking of sports Basket Ball and Soccer are now in full swing. The Police Football XI is coming up fine—thanks to the untiring coaching efforts of Messrs. K. M. and F. K. Lee of Bradleys. It will be remembered last year this team went to Amoy for interport soccer and made a very good show.

A GOOD SAMARITAN

Under new government orders no one is allowed in the theatre houses without a ticket of admission. Special men are detailed for the job, and any one who can't prove having paid for his amusement will be severely dealt with. No theatre or cinema houses have ever made any profits inspite of full audiences at every performance for the simple reason that about 40 per cent. was comprised of free and half price tickets. Evidently the present checking of the audience is the outcome of strong protests made to the Pacification Headquarters by the various theatre managements.

Another order issued is that no government servant is allowed to use water and electric light free of charge. At least half price must be paid.

THE COST OF FLYING

Efforts To Make A Reduction

A considerable section of the British flying community has lately been occupied in an endeavour to reduce the cost of flying, and their efforts have now been rewarded. A "feather plane"—as a new type of ultra-light aeroplane has been so aptly named—has been constructed which can be flown for 2½d a mile. The cost of the aeroplane, including full equipment, is £395. It is the fifth type of ultra-light aeroplane to be marketed in Great Britain and, judging by the rapidity with which developments are taking place, it will be possible within the space of a very few years to buy and fly an aeroplane as cheaply as it is now possible to purchase and run a motor car.

A demonstration of the newly constructed plane, an "Aeronca-J. A. P.," was given in London on the 19th of September in a wind with gusts up to forty miles an hour. In spite of the smallness of the machine the instrument board is fully equipped. The view from the plane is good. The engine has a capacity of eighty-five miles an hour as a cruising speed, and is capable of reaching a maximum speed of ninety-five miles an hour. The altitude which may be attained is twelve thousand feet. Other examples of ultra-light aeroplanes are now being designed. This type of plane is an interesting development in aviation, and in due time it will become a most important feature in British civil aviation.

WATER COLOURS

Komor's Exhibition

Golden Yellow beautifully blended make No. 10 in the collection distinctive. These colours are naively employed by Yoshino in an oriental sunset. Colours thought impossible to capture, have been depicted by Japan's famous painters exhibiting at Messrs. Komor & Komor Art Galleries. Magic seems to have been worked by brushes. Purples of varying values are combined with deep green in beautiful sea views. Many original and entrancing effects have been attained through a brush technique that all but defies analysis. In fact so smoothly is the result in some pictures that one marvels that a brush could register such vivid and beautiful colour combinations.

No. 15. Two figures by "Nakayama" stands out distinctively. This is the only picture by this old and well-known artist, who retired from regular competition ten years ago and now only paints for pleasure. It is only occasionally that one of his pictures is offered for sale, and they are well sought after, though slightly higher in price.

The smaller pictures sell this year for $1.50. and are very suitable for X'mas greeting cards. These are unquestionably of artistic merit and are popular at home.

A Novel offering is the $100.00 merchandse order to be presented by Messrs. Komor's to some of the patrons of the exhibition. To give everyone an opportunity to see these beautiful pictures and possibly obtain the presentation, Komor's will be open till 6 p.m.

KENYA FINANCE

Sir Alan Pim Appointed

(Special Air Mail Service)

London, Oct. 10.

The Secretary of State for the Colonies has appointed Sir Alan W. Pim, late of the Indian Civil Service, to visit Kenya as Commissioner with the following terms of reference:—

1. To inquire into the whole field of Governmental expenditure in Kenya, with particular reference to the cost of the administrative and technical services; and to report whether, in his judgment, the total of this expenditure can be legitimately reduced, whether by reorganisation or other means, without detriment to efficiency.

2. To examine the present position of Kenya Government finance, having regard to the revenue and expenditure of the present and recent years and the prospective revenue and expenditure for 1936; and to advise whether any, and if so what, modifications in the existing system of taxation in Kenya should be effected consistently with preserving the financial stability of the Government.

Sir Alan Pim has in recent years been entrusted with financial inquiries on behalf of the Government in British Honduras, Zanzibar, Basutoland, Swaziland, and the Bechuanaland Protectorate.

Arrangements have been made by the courtesy of the Empire Cotton-growing Corporation for Mr. S. Milligan, formerly Agricultural Adviser to the Government of India, to be associated with the Commissioner as adviser in respect of agricultural and associated scientific services, and Mr. C. H. Hartwell, of the Ceylon Civil Service, will act as secretary to the Commission. It is anticipated that Sir Alan Pim and Mr. Milligan will leave England by air on October 23.

SETTLERS' GRIEVANCE

The appointment of the Commissioner fulfils a promise made by the Secretary of State last month. Finance has been a long-standing grievance among Kenya settlers, who have suffered severely as the result of the fall in the prices of agricultural produce, and there has been considerable opposition to increased taxation imposed by the Government after a series of Budget deficits.

The settlers hope that the inquiry will result in a remodelling of the whole administrative of the colony. Almost a half of Kenya's annual expenditure is for the payment of debt charges, pensions, and other fixed sums. It has also been pointed out several times in the course of the long agitation in the colony that nearly a quarter of the European civil servants there receive salaries of £1,000 a year or more, and this, it has been contended, is too heavy a burden.

BOY KILLED

In Motor Accident

A fatal accident occurred yesterday shortly before noon, when a Chinese boy, aged about 12 years old, was knocked down and instantaneously killed by a motor lorry No. 4067 at Connaught Road, on the waterfront, near Reuter's Office.

Eye witnesses state that the lorry was proceeding from west to east when the lad suddenly darted across the road, from the car park, chased by a play mate.

The unfortunate lad was run over, the right front wheel striking his head.

Another accident was brought to the notice of the police when, Chu Choi Chee, driver of lorry No. 3570, reported that while driving in Queen's Road West, about 4.15 p.m. on Wednesday he collided with tramcar No. 63. Three coolies Chan Kai, Ho Man and Lo Pan, who were on the lorry, received slight injuries, and were sent to the Government Civil Hospital. Both vehicles were slightly damaged.

NEW P. & O. LINER "STRATHMORE"

Cargo Capacity

A good deal of attention has been given to the luxurious accommodation and comfort provided for passengers in the new P. & O. liner "Strathmore". Less has been said about the provision for cargo, and since this side will be of particular interest to the commercial community a few brief notes are offered.

The "Strathmore" has a cargo capacity which after making due allowance for mails and baggage approximates to a net figure of 7,000 to 7,500 tons at 50 cu.ft. Special attention has been given to the installation of insulated space to meet the growing demand for transit of perishable produce. There is an insulated cargo space of nearly 192,000 cu.ft., and of this about 37,000 cu.ft. is available for either chilled meat or frozen produce. These spaces are gas tight so that they can be used for the conveyance of chilled meat. No. 3 'tween-deck is sub-divided into five chambers, each available for chilled meat, fruit or other chilled and frozen produce.

The hatches are of a large size and every facility is provided for the handling of motor cars and bulky package so that altogether the "Strathmore" may be regarded for a vessel of her class as well in the forefront in the provision of the latest and best in cargo carrying facilities.

ANXIOUS WOMEN

The offices of Messrs Johnston, Stokes and Master was the scene of great excitement yesterday morning, when over 100 women and girls of the working class rushed into the premises.

It appears that the women were former employees of the Canton Rubber Factory at Shamshuipoo, which has gone into liquidation, and the affairs of which were directed by Messrs Johnston, Stokes and Master who had told the women to call at about 2.30 p.m. for their wages, but instead they went early in the morning and made such a disturbance that the police had to be called to quiet them.

The Factory it is understood, employed over 300 hands and the fact that only 90 of them had been given their "tickets" for wages, caused the rest to "storm the office in fear that they might not be given their due.

NEW GOVERNOR OF LEEWARD ISLANDS

London, Oct. 10

It was announced from the Colonial Office last night that the King has approved the appointment of Mr. Gordon James Lethem, Governor of Seychelles, to be Governor and Commander-in-Chief of the Leeward Islands, in succession to Lieutenant Colonel Sir Reginald St. Johnston, who is shortly retiring from the service.

Mr. Lethem was Assistant Resident, Northern Nigeria, in 1911; Resident in 1924; Acting Secretary, Northern Provinces, in 1927, and Secretary, Northern Provinces, in 1929. He was appointed to the Seychelles in 1933

MARSHAL PETAIN

(Special Air Mail Service)

London, Oct. 10.

Marshal Pétain, Commander-in-Chief of the French Armies in 1917, will visit London in the latter part of October as the guest of Lord Derby and the United Associations of Great Britain and France. Mme. Pétain is not coming.

Commandant Millescamps, former private secretary to Marshal Pétain, and now A.D.C. to the prince of Monaco, will be among those present at a dinner given in honour of the Marshal at Claridge's on October 23, when Lord Derby will receive the guests and preside. Field-Marshal Lord Cavan is to propose the health of the French Marshal, and other distinguished persons to be present will be:—

The Chancellor of the Exchequer, the Postmaster-General, Field-Marshal Lord Milne, Lord Ellisley, Major-General Sir Ernest Swinton, Lord Ivor Spencer Churchill, Lord Carnock, Lord Cecil Manners, Lord Charles Montagu, and M. de Fleuriau, former French Ambassador in London.

During his stay in London Marshal Pétain is to be the guest of the French Ambassador.

CHIEF CONSTABLE FOR YEARS

Edinburgh Tributes To Mr. Roderick Ross

London, Oct. 15

Mr. Roderick Ross, who retired this year from the Chief Constableship of Edinburgh after 35 years' service, was yesterday presented with a cheque in recognition of his public work by a committee representative of Edinburgh citizens. The presentation was made in the Caledonian Hotel by Lord Normand, the Lord Justice-General, and the company present included Mrs. Ross, Lord Dunedin, Sir James Leishman, Sir Alexander Grant, Bt., Sheriff Brown, Sir Patrick Ford, M.P., and Chief Constable Morren.

Lord Normand, in making the presentation, spoke of the voluminous mass of legislation which had been poured out during the last 35 years, and said it was a great tribute to the work of the police during the reign of Mr. Ross that all this mass of legislation had been mastered and applied in Edinburgh with complete smoothness. In Edinburgh they had the most helpful, the most courteous, and the most efficient police force anywhere in the world and nowhere were the relations between the ordinary citizens and the police more friendly.

SECRETS OF SUCCESS

The head of a police force must have high ability, a capacity for continuous and arduous detailed work, shrewdness, unfailing tact, and good humour, combined with calmness and fairness, and these qualities Mr. Ross had in great measure. (Applause.) More than that, he had never failed in devoted loyalty to the high traditions of the police force. But, above all, he believed the great success of Mr. Ross was due to the fact that the men under him felt that in their chief they had a man who would never fail in loyalty to them, but would always see that they received justice at the hands of the Edinburgh citizens.

They would miss Mr. Ross's familiar figure, Lord Normand concluded, the stalwart figure that inspired confidence wherever it was seen in the streets of Edinburgh. They thanked him for his services, and they wished him and Mrs. Ross long years to enjoy their leisure.

BRITISH FINANCE AND COMMERCE

One of the most important items among what are called a country's "invisible exports" is foreign investment. During the last five or six years of world economic depression such investments have been under a cloud. Their value has been greatly reduced in all countries—by sale to the nationals of foreign countries, by devaluation of currency, and, at the same time, there has been a drying up of desire and ability to lend abroad.

Nevertheless these investments are an absolutely essential part of the mechanism of foreign trade, for the revenue derived from them remitted abroad forms a large part of those "invisible exports" which go to secure that "balance of trade" which all countries strive to attain. There are indeed many influential economists who maintain that no return to world-wide prosperity can be made until the surplus funds, that is, the savings, of the major industrial nations once again find a secure and unimpeded outlet in all parts of the world. For the foregoing reasons the greatest interest is naturally taken in the estimates that are from time to time made by different financial authorities as to the amount of Great Britain's overseas investments. Foremost among such authorities is Sir Robert Kindersley, a director of the Bank of England, who each year publishes in the "Economic Journal" an analysis of these investments. As the time is perhaps approaching when an attempt will be made to resume foreign lending on a larger scale than has been possible in the last half decade, some quotation here from Sir Robert's latest researches, and his conclusions thereon, will be a propos.

The outstanding feature in the latest analysis, necessarily provisional, is that last year there already took place an advance of an appreciable sum in Britain's income from overseas investments. This income was £158.3 millions in 1934, as against £149.7 millions in 1933. The larger income for 1934 was almost wholly due to a recovery in payments made upon investments in British companies operating abroad and upon British capital invested in foreign and colonial companies. This improvement, gratifying as it is in itself, as showing that the tide is turning, will have to go very much further before the figures for the last pre-crisis year, 1929, are attained. In that year Great Britain's overseas income from investments amounted to £230.9 millions. From this figure it steadily declined each year until low-water mark was reached in 1923.

Sir Robert has divided these income figures into four categories, (1) income from dominion, colonial and foreign governments and municipalities; (2) income from British companies abroad (registered in the United Kingdom); (3) income from foreign and colonial companies registered abroad; and (4) other investments not covered by the three categories mentioned. It is interesting to note the relatively small decline of the income received from class (1) compared with the falling off of income received from the commercial categories (2) (3) and (4). The comparison between 1929 and 1934 can be set out as follows, the figures being in millions of £: 1929. (1) 64.7, (2) 86.0, (3) 61.7 and (4) 18.5. 1934 (1) 61.0, (2) 45.7, (3) 39.5 and (4) 12.1. Last year all categories but (1) showed an improvement on the 1933 figures.

With regard to (1), the category of income from foreign and colonial governmental and semi-governmental stocks, the decline from 1933 to 1934 was only £0.1 millions (i.e. £100,000). The fact that this total is less than £1 million below the figure for 1928 is a little surprising considering the wide-spread character of defaults by states during the last few years. As will be seen by the figures given above, income under category (1) fell by £3.7 millions only between 1929 and 1934, but income under other headings was nearly halved.

Another feature of Great Britain's non-commercial lending abroad in recent years is that pointed out in the last few days by the London financial journal, "The Economist." This is the shifting away from investment in purely foreign loans to investment in loans to British Dominions and colonies. New cash subscribed in 1933 to purely foreign loans amounted to only £5 millions, while at the same time repayments from abroad amounted to nearly £11 millions. On the other hand the new issue market for Dominion loans was active in 1933. Indeed, new issues for Dominion loans in that year totalled £116 millions, of which £79 millions was subscribed in cash, the balance representing conversions.

Commenting on his analysis, Sir Robert Kindersley expresses the view that the outlook for further improvement is undoubtedly brighter than for some time past. He thinks further serious default on foreign bonds unlikely. Increasing trade within the sterling (British) area, the prospect of continued high prices for gold and the operation of restriction schemes on certain raw commodities throughout the world, all tend to enhance Britain's overseas income. There can be no return to the high level of £300 millions per year, such as prevailed in 1926 and 1927 until world trade increases and there is a general advance in world prices.

DECISIONS BY THE C.E.C.

Powers Of Congress Delegates

Nanking, Oct. 3.

The Central Executive Committee at a meeting this morning decided to bring up the revised draft constitution for discussion at the Sixth Plenary Session opening to-morrow.

It also decided that the delegates at the forthcoming Fifth National Congress who are nominated by the Central Kuomintang will be only allowed to sit as observers with no right to cast votes. This decision was reached as a result of representations from a number of provincial delegates.—

STRAIGHT FROM THE SHOULDER

(BY NO QUARTER)

There is a feeling of Spring in the air to-day, which is a pity, as it is high autumn. But the feeling is there, none the less, and a laburnum bush is winking at me across the road, in the hope that I may be the sort of gentleman who prefers blondes, and come and talk to her.

When the weather does this sort of thing, I am very dangerous. I flounce about the place roaring out songs in a cracked baritone, and chasing old ladies up and down the tops of tramcars. In France, I took the Mayor of Pontgai by the nose, and battered his brains out with his own umbrella. I am a dangerous fellow when the sun shines like this. The trouble with me is that I don't know my own strength.

But it is no use. The sun on days like this is born to shine on steel hauberk, or scarlet trapping, such as there were in the days when there was a little fun and frolic in the world. Instead of which, it shines on a lot of silly stout hominoids, and on the abominable hat of Mrs. Gurkin, who lives next door.

With which cryptic saying, No Quarter turned on his heel, and strode swiftly in the direction of the Spotted Cow.

OUR NEW SERIAL, BY MARTHA COPPLE

Start to-day

Sir Christopher Fitz-Lathe starred unhappily across the table at the Latvian Ambassador: "I can't believe that Schnoritz would make such a blunder. If Smithers....."

"Smithers is in Athens," the Ambassador riposted swiftly. "Bergier might have been able to pull it off, but if La Bourrierre gets hold of the Treaty....." he shrugged his shoulders.

"If Bergier leaves Brussels," groaned Sir Christopher, "it means that Pulitoff will have to leave Tomlinson in Siam. And that would be suicide to our policy in Greenland."

He frowned. "This is no woman's work, he said. "Bogleigh would stick at nothing."

Virginia smiled. "I think I can look after myself" she murmured. From out of her dainty handbag she drew a pearl handled automatic, a packet of weed killer, and the small silver badge which denoted her membership of that daring fellowship of death.....the Secret Service.

Even as she spoke, the telephone rang. "Derti and Schertz have been found murdered in Hong Kong," said a voice shortly.

(Don't miss next week's thrilling episode. Virginia is exposed to the ruthless power of the arch-fiend).

NEW FRENCH DECREES

Army Defence Tightened

(Special to the "Hong Kong Daily Press")

(By Telegraph, Copyright, Telegraphic Messages Ordinance, 1894. Received, October 31, 7.30 p.m.)

Paris, Oct. 31.

Rigorous measures for the defence of the French army against attempts to disintegrate it have been enacted by some of the recently issued emergency decrees.

On of these decrees provides for increased penalties for persons guilty of wilfully propagating false news which is susceptible of undermining the discipline and morale of the troops, and enjoins the authorities to mete the severest punishment to prevent such propagation.

By virtue of another decree, all cases of espionage will henceforth be tried by court-marshal instead of the civil court.

A third decree places all factories carrying on work connected with national defence under State supervision in order to control their activities and prevent excessive profits being reaped by arms industry.—

MR. KELLOGG'S VIEWS

St. Paul, Min., Oct. 30.

The United States should designate Italy an aggressor in flagrant violation of the sovereignty of another nation and also denounce Italy's violation of her treaty obligations and announce that it will take no step whatsoever to interfere with or nullify the measures others are now taking to stop the war, declared Mr. Frank Kellogg yesterday in a broadcast.

He added that Italy was "undoubtedly using war as an instrument of national policy, thus violating her treaty with the United States and the supreme law of our land."—

LOCAL AND GENERAL

Two cases of diphtheria and two of enteric fever were reported to the Health Authorities for the 24 hours ended on October 25.

Gun practice with live ammunition will be carried out from Stonecutters Island on Tuesday, November 5 (between the hours of 8.30 a.m. and 11.30 a.m.), and again on Thursday, November 7, 1935 (between the hours of 6 p.m. and 9 p.m.).

The Opening Concert of the Season will take place at the Helena May Institute on Thursday, November 7 at 5.30 p.m. The following Artistes are contributing to the programme, Mrs. E. Snowdon-Jones Soprano, Mrs. N Mathieson Contralto, Dr. L. T. Ride Baritone and Mr. W. M. Barton Solo Pianoforte. At the piano Mr. Lindsay Lafford, F.R.C.O. (CHM), A.R.C.M., L.R.A.M. Prices as usual. Please book teas from the Matron, telephone 22160. Concert tickets are available at the door.

The fortnightly whist drives of the Craigengower Cricket Club will be resumed on Saturday next, commencing at 9 p.m.

Owing to a typographical error, the bequests made by the late Mr. A. M. Bowes-Smith to his children should read £200 each, and not £2,000, as stated yesterday. The bequests to his clerk and ricksha coolies were conditional on their having been in Mr. Bowes-Smith's employment for eight years immediately prior to his demise.

Mr. G. C. Pelham, H. M. Trade Commmissioner in Hong Kong and Commercial Secretary for the British Embassy, who is travelling to England on the s.s. Cathay, which sails at noon on Saturday, November 2, will embark on the launch Teencheong at Queen's Pier at 10.30 a.m. on that day.

The Feast of All Saints, Holy Eucharist will be celebrated in the Lady Chapel, St. John's Cathedral at 7.45 a.m. to-day. This evening at 7.30, there will be a special service of Commemoration (Choral) in the cathedral. The service will be in English and Cantonese, and the Bishop will be present. The preacher will be the Rev. John Foster, of Canton.

NORTH CHINA SITUATION

Report Of New Demands

Peiping, Oct. 31.

An unconfirmed report states that the Japanese military authorities delivered a series of new demands on the North China authorities of a more far-reaching nature than those of June which precipitated the departure of General Ho Ying-chin.

A Japanese spokesman told foreign correspondents to-day that the Japanese authorities looked to the Military Council for fulfilment of the demands delivered Tuesday on the North China authorities.

Asked what steps it was proposed to take if the terms were not fulfilled, he said that would have to be considered later. He was confident that matters would be rectified by the Chinese authorities.

Asked as to what instances Japan complained of, the spokesman declared that the Japanese possessed proof that anti-Japanese and anti-Manchukuo movements in Manchuria were still receiving support from North China which he contended violated both the Tangku treaty and the so-called North China agreement.

The spokesman indicated that though the North China agreement between General Ho Ying-chin and General Umetsu was unorthodox in that it was not signed, the Japanese expected its fulfilment.—

ARMY DECISION

Changchun, Oct. 31.

The Kwantung Army this afternoon made a statement staunchly supporting the Japanese authorities' demands for thorough abolition of all organs engaged in anti-Japan and anti-Manchukuo activities in China.

A conference of Japanese leaders representing the Kwantung Army, South Manchuria Railway, Japanese Embassy and Kwantung Bureau, it is understood, successfully laid the cards on the table for smooth working out of an economic programme in the Three Eastern Provinces and S.M.R. plans in North China. Details are not revealed.—

ITALIAN MERCHANT MARINE ASKED TO CO-OPERATE WITH THE NAVY

Strong Resistance To Sanctions

NAVAL MEASURES IN CASE OF WAR

Use Of Merchant Ships As Minelayers

Rome, October 31.

There is every indication here that the Italian population is prepared to face sanctions imposed by the League in a spirit of stubborn resignation. On all sides can be seen evidences of the people's efforts to conform with the new restriction decrees.

An official list of foodstuffs has been published showing a reduction in the present level on prices for meat, fish, flour and other staple necessities. On the other hand the prices for coffee, milk and other commodities which may be regarded as luxuries have been increased.

A special Royal decree was issued to-day ordering the Italian Merchant Marine to co-operate with the Italian Navy in the event of war. Italian merchant ships will be used as minesweepers, minelayers, troopships and armed auxiliary vessels should the necessity arise.

Meanwhile troops continue to depart to East Africa and a further 3,000 embarked to-day from Naples amidst the usual scenes of enthusiasm.—Reuter.

Geneva, Oct. 31.

Mr. Anthony Eden, British Minister for League of Nations Affairs, arrived here and immediately participated in the meeting of the Committee of Eighteen whose task it is to consider the next sanctions step which they are presenting to the Co-ordinating Committee in the afternoon.

The report is expected to recommend the application of sanctions three and four, namely ban on exports from Italy and imports of key products to Italy.

The general feeling in Geneva is that there can be no question of delay in enforcing sanctions so long as hostilities continue.

Very great importance is attached to the presence of Sir Samuel Hoare, M. Laval and Baron Aloisi to-morrow. It is felt this indicates that a settlement may be nearer than generally imagined and it is hoped that the personal meetings between them will lead thereto. British circles, however, are less optimistic and emphasise that exchanges of views so far have been merely of a preliminary nature.—Reuter.

COMMITTEE DECISION

Geneva, Oct. 31.

The Committee of Eighteen again met this morning to discuss final technical questions as regards the imposition of sanctions.

It was agreed, inter alia, that all contracts entered into with Italy before October 19 can be allowed to stand provided due payment has been made by Italy in each case.

Only nine members failed to reply to the League's representations as regards sanctions, while the United States is the only non-member country to have tendered a formal reply.—Reuter.

EDEN LEAVES

London, Oct. 30.

The Minister for League Affairs, Mr. Anthony Eden, and other members of the British delegation left London to-day to attend the meetings of the League Committee at Geneva to-morrow.

The Committee's task is to appoint a date for the concerted application of certain economic measures against Italy, recommended at a previous session to the League members engaged in fulfilment of their obligations under Article 16 of the Covenant.

According to a Geneva message to-night forty-one nations have notified the League that they have put into effect the arms embargo against Italy. Thirty-seven have applied measures recommended for withholding of loans and credits and the same number have announced their readiness to apply proposals for the prohibition of imports coming from Italy and of export to Italy of key products.

Finally nineteen states have accepted recommendations regarding mutual assistance.

Sir Samuel Hoare and M. Pierre Laval are expected in Geneva on Friday and it is generally anticipated a statement will be made at some stage of the meetings on the subject of the recent diplomatic exchanges which have been taking place with the object of discovering a possible basis of settlement within the framework of the Covenant and acceptable to the two parties to the dispute. In London it is regarded as unlikely in the light of progress so far achieved that there will be anything to report beyond an account of endeavours which have been made, and redefinition of essential principles, which are that any proposals for a settlement must be acceptable to the League, to Italy and to Ethiopia.—British Wireless.

FORMULA SOUGHT

London, Oct. 30.

It is now clear that Anglo-French experts are trying to discover the maximum concessions it is possible to make to Signor Mussolini with the League of Nations principles.

Consultations which are being held in Paris are in a very fluid state, however.

The object is officially stated to be connected with the reply to be made to the Italian suggestions which come before the League Council during the next two days.—Reuter.

TRANSPARENT GAME

London, Oct. 30.

In the course of an election speech in his constituency to-day, the Foreign Secretary, Sir Samuel Hoare, speaking of the international situation, referred to what he called the "diverting but very transparent game" which consisted of making mysteries and spreading inuendoes. Those whispers and inuendoes, of which the latest examples were concerned with his forthcoming visit to Geneva, were electioneering pure and simple. The opponents of the Government were trying to make ignorant people believe that there was some disreputable intrigue behind this visit, and that it implied some sinister change of policy.

Sir Samuel Hoare said:—"I am going to Geneva to be there whilst very important discussions are taking place on the application of sanctions. Secondly, I wanted to take the opportunity that is always offered by these important meetings of the League to have a talk with M. Laval, the French Prime Minister, and some of the other prominent Ministers of Member States." What could be more natural or simple? As to the alleged change of policy, let them get that out of their heads once and for all. There had been and would be no change of a policy which had always been perfectly simple, namely, loyalty to the League and readiness to help with any honourable settlement of the dispute that was acceptable to the three parties concerned, the League, Italy and Ethiopia. That was the policy that he would support at Geneva.

SIDETRACKING LEAGUE

Referring to the exchanges which have been taking place with a view to finding a basis of settlement, Sir Samuel said an attempt was being made to give the impression that "we are trying to sidetrack the League and do a disreputable deal with Italy behind its back. I have already said there is no foundation whatever for this malicious suspicion. There is nothing to conceal about what has been happening. It is common property that several Governments have recently been considering the possibilities of a peaceful settlement and that the British and French Governments in particular have been exchanging views as to what might form the basis of future negotiation. In order that we should fully understand each others' views, the head of the Abyssinian Department at the Foreign Office has been in Paris discussing a number of complicated details with officials of the French Foreign Office. For the time being, we are engaged in this exchange of views. Nothing has yet emerged, and if anything definite does emerge, we shall, of course take the earliest opportunity to report to the League.

"If eventually a settlement is proved possible, that settlement would, as I have stated over and over again, be within the framework of the League, and will have to be satisfactory to the League, Italy and Abyssinia. That is the whole story.—British Wireless.

ASKARI TROOPS IN ACTION

Crocodile-Infested River Crossed

Asmara, Oct. 31.

An Italian detachment of native Askari troops which crossed the Setit river near the Sudanese border in order to drive the Abyssinians back from the caravan road leading from Omager into Abyssinia had to resist attack by rapacious crocodiles before they were able to approach the enemy positions.

At this point the Setit river is nearly 2,000 feet wide and only three feet deep, but is infested with thousands of crocodiles, so that soldiers while wading across the river had to keep up a running fire and continuously beat their drums in order to drive off the dangerous reptiles, of which many were killed while the Askaris suffered no casualties.

BRITISH NAVAL CONSTRUCTION

Contracts Placed

London, Oct. 31.

The Admiralty has decided, subject to settlement of certain points of detail, to entrust the construction of the flotilla leader and destroyers of the 1935 programme to the following firms.

Flotilla leader, Camell Laird Birkenhead.

Two destroyers each to John Brown, Clydebank; Hawthorn Leslie Company, Hebburn-on-Tyne; Samuel White and Company, Cowes, Isle of Wright; Yarrow and Company, Glasgow.

These contracts will dispose of all destroyers provided for in the 1935 programme.

To complete the programme orders have still to be placed for three submarines, one submarine depot ship, three minesweepers and one convoy sloop, one surveying ship and seven small craft.

All vessels to be constructed are for usual maintenance purposes of the Fleet and are not part of any rebuilding scheme.

All ships of 1934 construction programme are at present on the stocks and some of the smaller vessels will soon be ready for launching.—British Wireless.

H.K. AND S'HAI DOLLAR

Alarm In London

London, Oct. 31.

The weakness of the Shanghai and Hong Kong dollars is causing alarm in London banking circles. The fall of Shanghai currency is attributable to the heavy speculative attack following the wake of devaluation rumours, while Hong Kong is estimated to be between £2 million to £3 million bought over sterling gold currencies.

Business in Shanghai dollars is at a virtual standstill. The quotation is almost purely nominal, several business men telling Reuter's they have been unable to arrange the ordinary commercial requirements.

Paris at present is switching from rentes into oil shares and Kaffirs for greater safety owing to the growing opposition of economy decrees. It is expected that the Chamber will meet in the third week of November when M. Laval is assured of a stormy passage, some forecasting he will be succeeded by M. Flandin or M. Mandel.

Obviously it is to the advantage of the French authorities to delay the meeting of the Chamber till January because the rising trend of prices in the United States and United Kingdom would materially help to alleviate the French economic position.

A sharp contrast to the French situation was witnessed in Holland where it is rumoured the Netherlands Bank bought twenty million guilders gold from the British Equalisation Fund in an effort to further ease the tight monetary conditions in Amsterdam.—Reuter.

FINANCE IN CHINA

London Views

London, Oct. 31.

Chinese exchanges can now be accurately described as in a state of demoralisation, says the "Daily Telegraph" which criticises Nanking's lack of a definite policy and spasmodic action in alternately supporting an unsupporting market.

The "Morning Post" believes official support was withdrawn pending the cessation of the present heavy wave of selling.

Some papers draw attention to the recent better reports of Chinese exports, but emphasise that full advantage of the lowness of the dollar cannot be taken till the Government policy has crystallised.

Chinese interested circles opine that Chinese finances will remain in a state of flux till the issue of the Sino-Japanese negotiations and the possible influence of Sir Frederick Leith-Ross mission on British policy in the Far East is more definitely known. Some opine that Chinese speculators have inside information regarding the Government's intentions. Otherwise the present heavy short-selling exposes them to the danger of being badly caught owing to Chinese inability to import silver.—Reuter.

RAILWAY RUSH IN GERMANY

Flying Hamburgers Inadequate

(Special to the "Hong Kong Daily Press")

(By Telegraph, Copyright, Telegraphic Messages Ordinance, 1891. Received, October 31, 7.30 p.m.)

Berlin, Oct. 31.

Two of the four "flying Hamburgers" which are running daily between Berlin and Hamburg and were the first motor driven express trains to be put into service by the German railways have fallen victim to their own popularity.

The daily rush for these trains which cover the distance in two hours and 23 minutes was so great that owing to the limited seating capacity of their two coaches they were unable to accommodate more than a fraction of the would-be passengers.

Under these circumstances the railway management have decided to replace one of the two pairs of motor driven trains by steam driven trains of the new streamlined type which are capable of covering the distance in two hours 36 minutes—that is 13 minutes more than the flying Hamburgers time—but they will be able to accommodate the overflow of passengers.—Transocean Kuo Min.

ANOTHER AIR TRAGEDY

Flying Fortress Crashes

Dayton, Oct. 30.

The world's most powerful bombing plane, known to America as Boeing's "Flying Fortress," was totally destroyed to-day when it crashed near here while undergoing tests. One of its crew died of injuries.

It was a giant four-motored machine, built as an experiment largely and in the strictest secrecy. It was the only one of its type in existence.

It recently flew non-stop from Seattle, on the Pacific Coast, to Dayton, Ohio on the other side of the continent, where it was being put through tests in competition with two other makes of planes for the Army's acceptance.

It was while it was taking off that it crashed and caught fire.

IN DEFENCE OF THE GOVERNMENT

Home Secretary Replies To Lord Snowdon

London, October 31.

In a broadcast address last night, Sir John Simon, Liberal National, replied to the attack on the National Government delivered by Lord Snowden on the previous night. He claimed that it was the policy of the Government, which had restored confidence so that money could be borrowed cheaply and encouraged enterprise so that more people have been employed, which was responsible for reduction of employment since 1933 and not as Lord Snowden suggested were passive acceptance of general improvement in world conditions.

He pointed out that in 1934 the exports were £30,000,000 more than in the previous year and in 1935 they were again increasing. Thanks to trade agreements made with ten foreign countries, the exports of coal to those countries had increased by 40 per cent. The exports to empire countries under the Ottawa agreements increased from £102,000,000 in 1931 to £126,000,000 in 1934.

While the volume of world trade in 1934 was only 3 per cent. more than in 1933, the exports of the United Kingdom goods increased in volume by 7 per cent., more than twice as much.

Comparing the value of exports in the peak year of 1929 before the world depression with the extent of recovery in 1934, he pointed out that the exports of France, Germany, Italy and United States together were only 35 per cent. of their 1929 total. Britain's recovery was only 54 per cent.—British Wireless.

NO OPPOSITION

London, Oct. 30

Nomination of candidates for the General Election show that there are upwards of 130 Opposition Liberals and 70 Independent candidates of various political complexion.

The real fight will be between Ministerialists and Labour, both sides putting about 550 candidates in the field.

Only in the English Counties are there any appreciable number of seats unchallenged by Labour, while only in Wales are Ministerial candidates weak numerically.

With the opposition by Liberals and very marked, straight fights will be the rule, three-cornered contests being the exception.

Over 200 Labourites who sat in the 1929 Parliament will contest constituencies, while 546 candidates of the Parliament which has now been dissolved are seeking election. Therefore in a large proportion of the present the same candidates who fought in 1931 are fighting each other again.

Among the Cabinet members, only Mr. Stanley Baldwin, the Prime Minister, and Mr. Walter Runciman, the President of the Board of Trade, are without opposition. All the other Ministers are contesting the election.

Over 8,000 loud-speakers on travelling radio vans will be in action, setting forth the rival candidates' views.—Reuter.

UTTER RUIN

London, Oct. 30.

Mr. Neville Chamberlain, Chancellor of the Exchequer, addressing the city of London electors to-day, asserted that if the Socialists were returned to office the first effect abroad would be the complete disorganisation and utter ruin of the policy which at present was supported by the whole of the nation.

There was no reason to suppose, he said, that the process of recovery was finished. On the contrary provided there was no great disturbance of the public mind, he expected during the next four years that "we might safely anticipate steady progress in the same direction."

What would happen, he asked, if a fortnight hence a Government came to office pledged to the abolition of the House of Lords, a Government which would administer the affairs of the country by order, instead of through Parliament, which would nationalise banking and four of Britain's principal industries?

The mere announcement of such a thing being possible would mean that confidence would go in a day and London would be instantly drained of foreign money.—Reuter.

EMPIRE AIR SERVICES IMPROVEMENT

Penang-Hong Kong Link May Be Permanent

London, Oct. 31.

Speeding up of the Empire air services in the near future was announced by Sir Eric Geddes, the Chairman, at the annual meeting of Imperial Airways.

New machines will be ordered which will enable the England-Australia flight to be accomplished in seven days, England-South Africa in four days and England-India in three days.

Sleeping accommodation will be provided and acceleration of the services will be subject to suitable ground organisations.

Sir Eric Geddes said that the development of the service between London and Calcutta has fully justified itself. The service to Australia has shown an increase which warranted an increase in frequency to twice weekly.

It was expected that the air connection between Penang and Hong Kong will be continued permanently.

The Chairman also mentioned the probability of experimental Atlantic flights in 1936. He stated that the Government had officially informed the Company that it can continue as the chosen instrument for development of existing Empire lines.—Reuter.

ELEVENTH EXTRA RACE MEETING

The Propects Of The Ponies

(BY BLACK ROCK)

The meeting opens with the Surrey Handicap for "B" Class ponies, the entries for this event being very small due to many of the griffins taking part in the griffins Cup. Hetman (Frost) appears to be outstanding whilst his stable-mate King's Bounty also has a good chance. Ribble (Davis) is the only other pony in this race that can cause a surprise.

A GOOD RACE

The Suffolk Handicap for "D" Class ponies will have a big field and a good race is promised. Boxing Eve (Fung) though carrying top-weight is my selection as this pony has been very consistent lately and also this time the distance suits him better. The recently demoted Rousseau (Pih) will likely be another favourite. Belmont Star (Black) and Double Chance (Frost) should also be in the running.

THE CLASSIC

The Hong Kong Griffins Cup, the classic race of the afternoon, though the Derby Winner Herod is not entered, will provide a good race. Rose Queen (Pih) has disappointed too often though I am told that the mare will be using blinkers this time. This may improve her running but nevertheless my choice is Pontiac Bay (Frost) Mr. Proulx will be riding King's Jubilee which is the only other danger.

VICTORIA HALL?

The first section for "C" class ponies over one and a quarter miles shows promise of providing us with the best race of the afternoon. High Speed and Jungle Jim have been given top-weights after their recent performances but I am afraid that the burden is a bit too much. I like Victoria Hall (Pih) as this pony has been very impressive with his morning gallops. Soldier of China (Deitz) has long been due for a win and I shall not be surprised to see him win as he once won over this distance in the good time of 2.32. Bistre (Black) and Monoplane (Pan) are others that should run well.

THE MULLAH PLATE

Th only Race of the day for Australian Ponies, the Nullah Plate should result in a tussle between "Bag Tor" (Proulx) and Racing Heart (Black) for premier honours. Frost will probably be riding one of the Star ponies, but I am afraid the distance is a bit long for any of them. Saucy Face (Pih) should fill third place.

A CERTAINTY

In the novices race for "D" class ponies over six furlongs "Hearts Glory" carrying top-weight looks a certainty. This pony ran well in his last outing under Coppin but up to now his rider is not yet known. A stern challenge will be put up by Tillicum who is to be ridden by Tang Man Wah and only carrying 140 lbs. The black pony Plain View (W. H. Choy) and Wembly Stag (Wood) should be near.

NON-WINNERS RACE

The Sussex Handicap for non-winning subs over half-a-mile will provide us with a good race. The Deemster carrying 165 lbs. will be made favourite as he is going to be taken out by Proulx who is well known for his flying start. Forgemaster (Black) ran well at the last meeting and other challenger will be Blacksmith (Pih). Beginner's Luck (Botelho).

THE LAST RACE

The meeting closes with the second section for "C" class ponies. In this race Pride of Tsingtao has been given top-weight but I do not fancy his chances. My selection is Gold Coin (Pih) but Racing Boy (Black) and Great Hal. (Roza) are sure to be very close.

HOCKEY NOTES

Caer Clark Cup Contests

BY "ADREM"

With a meeting of the Caer Clark Cup organisation scheduled to take place this afternoon, interest will very naturally be drawn to this organisation, so that a few items that I have been able to glean concerning the teams who are expected to take place in the competition, will not be out of place

* * *

Four teams that are competing for honours this season have already attempted to get into their stride preparatory to the official opening sometime next week They are the C.B.A., Y.M.C.A., Recreio, and St. Andrew's. Mr. T Rowell, who may be said to have fostered hockey at the Central British School, has taken the C.B.A. ladies in hand for some weeks past and has put them through their paces with attack and defensive movements. The Association girls, however, have not as yet played a full-time game, their first appearance being scheduled, so I have been informed, for Saturday next on the Police Training School ground at Mongkok. They are to meet the Recreio girls. This match will give an indication of the respective strength of the two teams, and will be the first occasion in which Mrs. White (nee Marjorie Woolley) and Miss Iris Woolley (both ex-St Andrews) will be playing in their new colours.

* * *

The Y.M.C.A. ladies were the first to take the field this season, engaging for the most part with mens' elevens. I am without information as to whether they have played against any other cup contender, but from what I have heard about their performances against the superior stick work of their male opponents, the 'Y' can look forward with every confidence to a successful season. Their greatest find appears to be in the person of Miss M. Westcott, who I believe, has never played hockey before to any great extent, but while at school in England, was skipper of the lacrosse team. However, she appears to have quickly adapted herself to hockey, and can now be said to be a definite acquisition.

* * *

Utilising the soccer pitch at King's Park for practice purposes, the Recreio girls have been hard at hockey try-outs. I do not know if they have been as fortunate as the C.B.A. or the "Y" with new finds, but most of the old brigade, who have done yeomen service during the past few seasons, are likely to turn out again. The Recreio have always been known to be the most surprising eleven in the cup, and it is quite possible that they will live up to reputation in this respect, during the coming season.

* * *

St. Andrew's ladies have been hard at practice on the D.B.S. ground and although they have been deprived of the valuable services of both Mrs. White and Miss Iris Woolley, I understand that they have been able to muster twenty girls for practice games. This speaks volumes for the enthusiasm of this small club. Last Saturday, they engaged in a friendly game against the Recreio girls, and were successful in defeating their rivals to the tune of four goals to one. Phyllis Gittens, their most prolific goal-getter scored all the goals for the "Saints".

* * *

It is quite possible, so I have been informed, that two divisions may be formed in the Cup Competition, similar to the Mamak Tournament. It is quite likely that most of the clubs will run two elevens, with the Central British School girls, who put up such a brave exhibition last season against superior odds, playing in the "B" or 2nd Division, whatever it may be known as. This with give the girls far greater encouragement, and I venture to predict that most of the 2nd strings of the ladies sides, will find stalwart opposition when they meet the school girls.

* * *

The idea of having two divisions should I think, be given every encouragement since it will afford more girls in all the clubs participating in the cup, an opportunity to turn out for their respective teams. This in itself is an essential consideration. At the present moment, about fifteen girls in each club, may be assured to turn out for the first eleven at one time or another, with all the rest of the members playing only friendly games, the formation of two divisions will entirely rectify this situation, and eliminate any cause for dissatisfaction, that might have occurred during the past season.

NEW ZEALANDERS WIN

Backs Below Their Best Form

(Special Air Mail Service)

London, Oct. 10.

The New Zealanders, perhaps depressed by having to play on a field surrounded by all the paraphernalia surrounding a dog-racing track, did not earn much distinction yesterday when they defeated Northumberland and Durham by one dropped goal and two tries to two tries. The forwards maintained some of the improvement in scrummaging they showed at Birkenhead on Saturday, and all through held their own in the tight, but there was no great merit in that as they were much the heavier pack. Behind the scrum the New Zealanders made numerous mistakes, an unusual fault in their play being overconfidence, or perhaps selfishness in individuals. Openings were lost by going on with the ball instead of using men who were backing-up and all the outsides were at fault at some time or other. On several occasions Oliver and Griffiths were guilty of knocks-on, and Caughey frequently offended by keeping the ball when unmarked colleagues were waiting for a pass. Griffiths, at first five-eighth, needed a lot of watching, and no fault could be found with the tackling of the backs. Solomon, the full-back, fielded the ball cleanly, but rarely found touch with his kicks.

The best back play came from the composite side, but overeagerness marred much of the work. Harrison rarely received the type of pass which enabled him to attempt his customary thrust through, and although he worked hard, especially late in the second half, he did not go far. The kicking of the backs was usually too high to gain any ground against experts in making returns. Bailey and Bland were plucky in defence and I. McLaren was a sprightly stand-off half, but, as was the case with the New Zealanders, the forwards took the chief honours. Here, McLean McKenzie, and Reid, of the All Blacks, and Nicholson, Spence, Smith, and Hodgson, for the countries, were always prominent in the open.

A crowd of about 11,000 saw the countries keep the play in the All Blacks' half during the early stages, and they were disappointed when a penalty kick by Hodgson fell short. Then, from a line-out, the All Blacks reached the home "25" for the first time, and opened the score with a try by Ball after fifteen minutes' play. Brown missed with the place kick, but ten minutes later the All Blacks went further ahead when, after a quick heel, Griffiths smartly dropped a goal.

Just on half-time Oldroyd replied with a try for the countries which Hodgson could not convert, and at the interval the All Blacks led by 7 points to 3.

After the change of ends rain fell, but the All Blacks did not seem to be handicapped any more than they were at Birkenhead, some of the handling being done in a way which earned great admiration. Ball, in spite of the attention of two opponents, soon gained another try, but the New Zealanders had no other success, and five minutes from the end I. McLaren ran strongly and scored a try for the countries

HARD FOUGHT MATCH

Scotland's Final Effort

Glasgow, Oct. 30.

The teams of the Scottish and English Leagues, who fought out the issue here to-day, ended deadlocked with a score of two-all.

Eighteen thousands of eager spectators came out for the match in spite of the dull weather.

Massie, of the Hearts, gave the Scots the lead, placing a thirty yard drive in the corner of the net. And until half-time the Scots held on to this lead grimly.

In the second half Camsell, in a clever bit of footwork in front of the goal, had a second's advantage and drove for the post. He scored.

Snowden, of Arsenal, gave England the lead shortly afterwards, hooking a shot from twenty yards.

It was not for fourteen minutes that the Scots were able to equalise. Then Brown of the Glasgow Rangers hit the cross bar and dropped at the feet of Walker of the Hearts and MacRory of Celtic. Sagar, the English goalkeeper was instantly out upon it and there was a wild scrimmage for a few seconds, with the crowd roaring hoarsely. The ball budged the goal-net within a minute or two of time.—Reuter.

DESERTED SHIP FOUND

Cargo Of Timber On Board

[Special to the "Hong Kong Daily Press" (Copyright.)]

Danzig, Oct. 30.

The Swedish mystery ship, "Alfhild" a sailing boat with an auxilliary motor, which left Figeholm in Sweden on Thursday, last week, with a cargo of timber, was towed into port here on Tuesday by the s.s. Scandanavia, of the Svenska Orient Line.

The Alfhild was found by the Scandinavia on October 28, drifting in the open sea, deserted. The deck was entirely covered with timber so that all the hatches were closed but everything else appeared perfectly in order, with the exception that the log book is missing which suggests that the captain and crew of four must have left the vessel on their own accord during the recent storm, believing themselves to be in peril. A missing life boat seems to support this theory.

On the other hand the sails are in perfect order and let down, giving the impression that the weather could not have been very violent at the time the people left the vessel.

By marine law the Alfhild becomes the property of the captain of the Scandinavia who salvaged her as a deserted vessel. Unconfirmed reports say that the crew were picked up on Wednesday night by the s.s. Odin thirty miles east of Bornholm Island but up till now there is no explanation why the people left the vessel so unaccountably.—

WARNING BY GENERAL KONDYLIS

[Special to the "Hong Kong Daily Press" (Copyright.)]

Athens, Oct. 30.

General Kondylis told press representatives that he personally keenly regretted the necessity of proceeding against the two leaders Papan Dreu and Papan Astasiou, but the government allow no other course. Not the Government, but the republic has raised a dispute about the form of regime. After the Venizelos revolt was crushed, republicanism was broken.

"They were unshakeably determined to show the people," said Kondylis, "that they were worthy of the unrestricted confidence of the nation and that they were determined to maintain order and well discharge our duty no matter how sharp the measures are that we must adopt towards this end."—

ATTACK ON FUEHRER

[Special to the "Hong Kong Daily Press" (Copyright.)]

Berlin, Oct 30.

The Strand Magazine, in its latest issue, pubushes an article by the ex-Minister, Mr. Winston Churchill, attacking the National Socialists in general and the Fuehrer in particular with such virulence that the Reich Government has forbidden the sale and distribution of the magazine throughout the Reich for an indefinite period.

With reference to the insults to Germany's head of state contained in Mr. Churchill's article, the German Ambassador in London has been instructed to draw attention in the right quarters to the unprecedented and unseemly attack made by a prominent member of a political party in power and to lodge a strong protest against it.—

GERMAN DEFENCE FORCES

[Special to the "Hong Kong Daily Press" (Copyright.)]

Berlin, Oct 30.

Among the technical changes that will be introduced during the reorganisation of the Reichs defence forces necessitated by the readoption of universal compulsory military training, the regiments will no longer be named after cities, towns and provinces, as formally, but will be numbered. At the same time the army will be grouped differently, there being three group commands under which will be ten general commands.—

KAISER'S PLEA

To King Edward

(Special Air Mail Service)

London, Oct 10.

If a suggestion of the Kaiser had been carried out, "not a mouse would have dared to stir in Europe" and the Great War would never have happened.

At a small banquet in England the Kaiser made a direct appeal to King Edward, his uncle, for an Anglo-German alliance.

It was made in all seriousness yet it was never reported. The first report of the suggestion appears in a book published to-day—"Potsdam and Doorn" (John Murray), written by Brigadier-General W. H.-H. Waters, who was present, and actually took a note of the speech in which it was made.

Kaiser William went on to say that as a direct result of such an alliance, the other European nations would see the sense of an all-round reduction of armaments.

"Standing together," he said, "our two nations can ensure the peace of the world."

In over thirty years of the closest association with the Kaiser, the author of this book has had admirable opportunities of finding out the unknown side of the monarch . . . who "was made Emperor by God, and not by man."

In particular he throws a light on the darkest of the intrigues leading up to the war and after.

The German Emperor was a raconteur, with a flair for stories of the war. One of his best is repeated in the book.

"One day a German company on the East Front were ordered to capture some prisoners," says the Kaiser.

"An undersized camp-follower, a Jew, begged the captain to allow him to get the prisoners, who were required for identification purposes.

"The officer at first ridiculed the offer, which was almost certain to lead to the death of his camp-follower. At last he gave way, and one night the man set out towards the dark forest where the Russians lay concealed.

"Hours went by, and hope of the man returning was given up.

THE JEW SCORED

"Just as a patrol was going to look for him, a sound was heard, and the man appeared—and with him a whole company of Russians . . . . 250 of them.

"The Jew was aware that up to ten shillings was paid for each man, according to his equipment.

"The captain said he was unable to pay the full reward until he got some more money from headquarters. 'Don't bother, sir,' the Jew protested. 'These gentlemen have all paid me already.'"

The Emperor William is in favour of many of the reforms brought about by Hitler. "But," the Empress told Brigadier-General Waters, "he would never descend to intrigue to get back his throne."

"LIGHT" COLUMBUS SAW IN 1429

(Special Air Mail Service)

London, Oct 10

A strange light which Columbus saw on October 11, 1492, has been a mystery ever since.

Now, however, Mr. L. R. Crawshay, of the Marine Biological Association Laboratory, Plymouth, essays a further solution in "Nature," published on Saturday.

This curious light was recorded as seen by Columbus and others from the poop of the "Santa Maria" about 10 p.m., apparently off Watling's Island.

The light was seen some distance away in the darkness. It is described as "looking like the flame of a small candle, alternately raised and lowered."

Mr Crawshay advances the view that the light "was due to a surface display at the time of luminous marine annelids of the genus Odontosyllis."

In non-technical language, this mysterious light seems to have been displayed by the females of the species of phosphorescent marine worms to attract the males and Columbus probably stumbled upon nothing else but a marine love story!

Mr Crawshay adds that the illuminating display of a single Odontosyllis female may have separate short periods of excessive and declining brilliance, thus accounting for its resemblance to a candle flame "alternately raised and lowered."

RESIGNATION OF MR. LANSBURY

Mr. Attlee To Act

(Special Air Mail Service)

London, Oct 10.

Mr. Lansbury resigned his position as Chairman and Leader of the Parliamentary Labour Party on Tuesday, and Mr. Attlee, the deputy chairman, was appointed to act as chairman for the remaining weeks of the present Parliamentary Session. The party also decided to ask the Government to arranged for an earlier meeting of Parliament, and for debate on the international situation on the first day on which the House of Commons assembles.

The special meeting of the Parliamentary Labour Party was held at Transport House, and was largely attended by Labour members in both Houses. At the outset Mr. Lansbury made a long statement on his attitude towards the party's official policy on "sanctions," and intimated that in all the circumstances it would be impossible for him to continue as leader. He therefore tendered his resignation from the position of chairman and leader, and a long discussion followed on the desirability of Mr. Lansbury's remaining at the head of the party. Eventually Mr. Lansbury retired from the meeting, and a resolution asking him to reconsider his decision was carried by 38 votes to seven. It was afterwards explained that the minority acted from no feeling of personal hostility but in the conviction that the resolution was asking Mr. Lansbury to do an impossible thing in view of his own deep feelings. Mr. Lansbury returned to the meeting and the passage of the resolution was reported to him, but he expressed his deep regret that he could not alter his decision to resign.

ACCEPTED WITH REGRET

The meeting then passed a resolution accepting his resignation with regret, and the following resolution was also adopted:—

This meeting places on record its high appreciation of the services rendered by Mr. George Lansbury to the party and to the country during this Parliament; is deeply conscious of the fine sense of duty and devotion to principles throughout his long political life, and, whilst realising that his invaluable aid will still be at the service of the party, profoundly regrets that he has felt compelled to resign from the position of chairman and leader.

The chairman is elected at the beginning of each Parliamentary Session, and the meeting decided that Mr. Attlee, the vice-chairman, should carry on the duties of chairman for the remainder of the Session. It was reported that Sir Stafford Cripps, who was not present, had tendered his resignation from the executive and it was decided to ask him to reconsider his decision.

The Labour Party also resolved that Mr. Attlee should make a formal request to the Government for a speedy meeting of Parliament and for a debate on the international situation on the day that the House of Commons reassembles. It was expected that this request would be considered by the Cabinet at its weekly meeting this morning. Whether the request is granted must, of course, depend to some extent on the procedure which is followed at Geneva. It is not thought likely that Parliament would in any case be summoned until the impending decisions have been taken. There is a strong feeling, however, in political circles that when once the position has been clarified the Government should make a full statement to Parliament and ask for a vote of confidence. If Parliament does meet at an earlier date than that originally fixed, October 29 it would presumably proceed with its normal business after the discussion of the international situation.

THE GENERAL ELECTION

One advantage of this course would be that it would be possible to wind up the Session in ample time to hold a General Election before the early days of December if the National Government should decide that such a course was desirable. Since the Conservation Party Conference at Bournemouth there has been much speculation on the possibility of an early appeal to the country, and it is known that many Ministers are now in favour of that course. As yet no decision whatever has been taken on the subject by the Prime Minister, with whom the responsibility must finally rest.

Arrangements have now been made for Mr. MacDonald to take part in the Government's autumn speaking campaign. On November 19 he will be the principal speaker at a demonstration at Preston. The meeting at which Mr. Malcolm MacDonald was to have spoken at Tynemouth on November 6 has been cancelled in view of the wedding of the Duke of Gloucester on that day.

PICTURES OF THE FUTURE

More Sophisticated

(Special Air Mail Service)

London, Oct. 10.

Mr. Winfield Sheehan, famous Hollywood personality, maker of "Cavalcade," and until last July the guiding genius of Fox Films, is in London—without a single business idea in his head, writes a correspondent.

So, at least, he told me yesterday, when I tackled him with the question the whole film world is asking — what are his future plans?

"I have not had a holiday for seven years," he said. "I am in London for a week looking up old friends and enjoying myself.

"As to my break with Fox—that is all past history now. I worked with them for 21 years, but when I found that I differed in matters of policy from the people I was to work with, I left.

"The future trend of the films must be towards more sophistication. Each week the film audiences of the world are willing to take more things for granted, willing to use their imaginations more. This means the cutting out of many superfluities which at one time were essentials.

"There will be less and less labouring of obvious points and a general sharpening of technique as the audiences become quicker in the uptake."

Mr. Sheehan, who was recently married to Mme. Jeritza, spent his honeymoon in Austria. "I never talk about films to her," he said, "and she never discusses opera with me. They are two very different things."

HONG KONG RIFLE ASSOCIATION

First Invitation Shoot

The Hong Kong Rifle Association held its first invitation shoot on the Army ranges at Kowloon City on Wednesday afternoon, when members of the Royal Navy and Royal Marines turned up in force to shoot for four of the Association's Silver Spoons, which had been presented anonymously by a member for this purpose. Concurrently with this competition was held the usual Spoon and Practice Shoot for members, and the total number firing was nearly 80, by far the largest which has, up to now, attended on any one afternoon.

The Conditions of Shooting were the usual ones i.e. seven shots to count and one sighter at 800, 500 and 600 yards, and for once, the weather conditions, from the point-of-view of shooting, were all that could be desired.

Next week an Inter-Unit Competition is being held, for which entries have already been received from the Royal Engineers, Royal Welch Fusiliers, Lincolnshire Regiment and Royal Army Ordnance Corps, and as one of the conditions laid down is that members of the teams must also be members of the Association, some very close shooting is expected, in view of the facilities which have been available for practice.

The following are the leading scores made on Wednesday afternoon; it will be noted that once again, one member made a score which was the highest, from the point-of-view of the handicap, as well the nett, aggregates. Under the rules now in force, only one spoon is awarded when this occurs.

POLISH GROUPS DISSOLVE

Warsaw, Oct. 30.

The Polish Parliament bloc, to which all parties supporting Pilsudski belonged and which had been the basis of all cabinets since 1926, voluntarily declared its own dissolution on Wednesday because, since the recent execution of the great constitutional reform, the bloc had no further reason for existence.

A declaration to this effect was read aloud at the Assembly on Wednesday by the chairman and secretaries of the separate groups and by the bloc's chairman, ex-premier Walery Slawek.—

EMERGENCY DECREES IN FRANCE

Special to the "Hong Kong Daily Press" (Copyright.)]

Paris, Oct. 30.

When the cabinet under the chairmanship of President Lebrun met on Wednesday, it was found that 212 emergency decrees approved on Tuesday had been supplemented by a score, now amounting to 302 which was laid before the President for signature. Though most of these were of a technical character providing for administrative reforms, others of a more general nature directly effecting the public, for instance, a ten per cent reduction decreed by the Laval Government some months ago now applied to the colonies as well. One new decree provides for sharper penalties for the insult offered the heads of the foreign states. Another makes penalties for espionage more severe and also the dissemination of false reports are likely to undermine the discipline of the army.

The labour minister submitted a decree that commercial travellers and street hawkers not of French nationality are required to have lived five years in France or French colonies before they can obtain license to pursue their calling. The ministerial council passed all decrees, which President Lebrun thereupon signed.—

CHECK ON EXPORTS

Roosevelt Warns Exporters

Washington, Oct. 30.

A warning to exporters that the Government is keeping a careful check on all shipments to Italy and Ethiopia was given by President Roosevelt in a statement issued from the White House.

The President said the Government was determined not to become involved in the controversy, but was anxious for the restoration and maintenance of peace.

"However, in the course of the war, tempting trade opportunities may be offered for the supply of materials which would prolong the war. I do not believe that the American people will wish the abnormally increased profits which might be temporarily secured by extending our trade in such materials, nor would they wish the struggles on the battlefield to be prolonged because of profits accruing to a comparatively small number of citizens."

Observers attach importance to the fact that the statement was made on the eve of the League meeting to decide the date of economic sanctions against Italy, and believe that the President is anticipating League action, as he did with the declaration under the Neutrality Act.

The statement is interpreted as a strong attempt to secure voluntary compliance with the State Department's policy of refraining from increasing exports to belligerents. It is considered that only after voluntary efforts had demonstrably failed would any consideration be given by President Roosevelt to a legal embargo on the exportation of raw materials to belligerent nations.—

A CUP OF KINDNESS

The picture of the squabble between the Tutts and the Ramsbothams in "A Cup of Kindness" showing on Sunday at Alhambra is not at all overdrawn. Such disputations are common-places in urban and rural districts. Being a Major, it was not surprising that Tom Tutt regarded himself as a being altogether superior to his neighbours on the opposite of the road. "A Tutt was a cut above the Ramsbothams", was one of his tenets, and he endeavoured to live up to his belief, until his son Charley fell in love with the daughter of the Ramsbothams. Even then, he experienced great difficulty in accommodating himself to the rather changed relations between the two families.

BABY FACE HARRINGTON

"Baby Face Harrington," the funniest film of the year will be showing at the Oriental Theatre on Friday and Saturday. And not only funniest, but most original. It has no parallel nor comparison, because its star, Charles Butterworth, is unique among comedians.

Although the picture principally concerns the exploits of the unsmiling Butterworth, Una Merkel shares honours as his wife. They make the perfect comedy team, these two, each with a different technique, each balancing the others, yet both in perfect harmony.

The supporting cast is especially well selected. Nat Pendleton plays another of his famous gangster roles.

Ruth Selwyn effective role of Dorothy, Harvey Stephens, Eugene Pallette while Robert Livingston and Eddie Nugent are handsome additions to the cast.

JAPAN LEADERS' CONFERENCE

Changchun, Oct. 30.

More than twenty important Japanese leaders from Manchukuo, led by General Minami, Mr. Matsuoka and Mr. Takase, representing respectively the Kwantung Army, the South Manchuria Railway and Kwantung Bureau, have opened a secret conference here.

It is understood that the conference is discussing participation by the South Manchuria Railway in North China economic problems in Manchuria and the co-ordination of Japanese activities on the Asiatic Continent.—

INDUSTRY BEING PRESERVED

London, Oct. 30.

The anxiety which has existed in South Wales for many months regarding the proposal of Messrs. Richard Thomas and Company, steel and tinplate manufacturers, to transfer the business to new works in Lincolnshire, estimated to cost two million pounds, has been allayed by an announcement that, subject to the approval of certain groups of shareholders, the plan will not be proceeded with.

As a result of negotiations between Sir William Firth, Chairman of Richard Thomas and Co., and Sir John Beynon, Chairman of the Ebbw Vale Steel, Iron and Coal Company, as well as the Lancaster Steam Coal Collieries, a sum of between one and a half and two million pounds is said to be involved. If the scheme comes to materialise the whole of the big development which was planned for Lincolnshire may be confined to the South Wales area, which will not only enjoy a considerable increase in prosperity, but will be relieved of a serious loss of trade additional to the existing depression threatened by the proposed move.

The authorised capital of Richard Thomas and Co. is nine million pounds and of the Ebbw Vale Company three million seven hundred thousand pounds.—

STAVISKY TRIAL

Special to the "Hong Kong Daily Press" (Copyright.)]

Paris, Oct. 30.

After nearly two years of preliminary preparation, the Stavisky trial, resulting from the discovery of gigantic swindles, involving more or less directly many prominent people, will begin on Monday.

Thirty separate decisions must be reached as twenty accused will face the Bench while seventy counsel have been retained for the defence. The charge sheet consists of one thousand closely typed pages of text.

The applications for seats by the Home and foreign press alone are enough to fill the entire space available in the Court.—

THE PRINCE PAID HIS 2s.

(Special Air Mail Service)

London, Oct 10.

A man wearing a blue overcoat, grey flannel suit and a bowler hat, walked up to the turnstiles leading to the Antique Dealers' Fair at Grosvenor House, London, yesterday and handed over his 2s. entrance money. It was the Prince of Wales.

But no one recognised him at the entrance, and he immediately passed through the turnstile and began his tour of the exhibition.

He spent an hour in walking round, and particularly admired the table bearing a design of ostrich feathers which Lord Nelson gave to Lady Hamilton.

This Simple Treatment Quickly Heals ECZEMA

AND OTHER SKIN ERUPTIONS

The amazing curative powers of the Cuticura treatment are due to a unique combination of soothing, healing antiseptic medicaments. Nothing known to medical science will give you quicker more lasting relief than Cuticura. It stops the tormenting itch instantly; gives you days of peace and comfort and nights of restful sleep. But, best of all, Cuticura is an amazing healer which will clear up the most stubborn cases of Eczema, Psoriasis and other torturing, disfiguring skin eruptions.

How Cuticura Heals

Wash the affected part night and morning with Cuticura Soap and hot water to cleanse away poisonous matter and irritating secretions. Dry gently and apply Cuticura Ointment. This daily treatment relieves itching and allays inflammation at once. The soothing, healing, antiseptic Cuticura penetrates to the depths of the eruption. It destroys the lurking germs which keep the disease active, it heals the festering sores and steadily establishes a healthy condition of the skin which leads to complete recovery. The efficacy of this treatment will prove a revelation to sufferers who have been brought to the verge of despair

BELGIUM'S GAIN

(Special Air Mail Service)
London, Oct. 10.

A remarkable feature of the latest return of the Bank of Belgium is an increase of 5,376,000 belgas in the gold holding.

Central Banks of nearly all other Continental countries are at present showing declines in their gold holding.

One recent exception has been the Bank of Austria, whose most recent return showed a very slight increase in the metal reserve of 9,000 schillings.

Gold losses by other banks as shown by the latest returns include 23,935,027 zloty by the Bank of Poland, 3,941,180 pesetas by the Bank of Spain, 319,000 reichsmarks by the Reichsbank and 117,015,000 francs by the Bank of France.

The greater part of these losses has made its way to the United States, which is accumulating gold at an almost unprecedented rate.

Renewed currency fears, intensified by the European political situation, are causing this drain to the United States, which is unsatisfactory both to the loser and the gainer.

The currency position of the former is weakened by the gold losses and, since a return of confidence, which should follow a clarification of the European situation would probably cause a return movement from the United States, the latter can only regard its accumulations of gold as a factor making for subsequent instability.

BERLIN SHARE MARKET

[Special to the "Hong Kong Daily Press" (Copyright.)]

Berlin, Oct. 30.

Dr. Schacht's broadcast speech on thrift which was delivered on Tuesday, put investors in a confident mood but had the effect of turning the attention to fixed securities so that the share market continued to be neglected as before. Despite the caution, however, a small amount of business was done.

Fixed Interest Securities advanced above all municipal loans though gold mortgage bonds were also firmer. Call money was 3½ to 3⅝, the increase being due to demands for the monthly settlement. Young Loan was unquoted, (on Tuesday 102), Reichs Banks unchanged at 172, Dye Trusts rose ⅜ to 149⅜, Salzdetfurth Potash was unquoted, German Steel Trusts were unchanged at 80½, German Mineral Oils were ⅜ better at 104⅜. Siemenshalske unchanged at 164, and Hemberg Rayon improved ⅛ to 104⅛.—Transocean Kuo Min.
